Two Die; Thousands Flee Raging California Flood

Record Rains Inundate

FRESNO (UP)—California's worst flood sent torrents of water pouring through the state's rich Central Valley today. Two deaths were reported. Damage stood at $10,000,000. Some 8,500 persons fled their homes.

The weather bureau forecast more rain today. A week-end deluge of rain and muggy weather melted the Sierra Nevada snowpack and sent streams and rivers overflowing in the Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys which comprise the Central Valley region.

Authorities believed the worst of the danger was over early today as the waters began receding in many places. Many evacuees began returning to their silt-filled homes.

But authorities kept close watch lest the rivers begin rising again. These rivers included Kings, Kaweah, the Tule, Kern, Saint John's, Tulare, Chowchilla, Merced and Stanislaus, all in the San Joaquin Valley, and the American River in the Sacramento Valley.

Sacramento County authorities reported they received seven complaints of looting of evacuated homes.

Some communities and residential areas along the San Francisco Bay shore were under water in a combination of high tides and rain. One community, Alvarado, Southern Alameda County, was isolated for a time Sunday and 100 persons were evacuated.

One small town, Piedra, on the Kings River, was virtually wiped out. Chowchilla and Kingsburg were under several feet of water, last night.

State Agricultural Commissioner John Dixon, who has had years of experience with floods in the area, made an educated guess that crop damage would exceed $10,000,000. However, cotton farmers were thankful that 60 per cent of the cotton crop was in.

Lost Hunter Found In Manitoba Wilds

FLIN FLON, Man. (CP)—Weary and hungry, 18-year-old Bruce Brew reached home today after 60 hours lost in rugged, snow-blanketed bush country 30 miles southwest of here.

A three-man rescue party brought the youth home after he had been sighted by a search plane late Saturday.

U.S. Soldiers Within 2 Miles Of Manchuria

7th Division Units Closest To Border

WITH U.S. 10TH CORPS, NORTH KOREA (AP)—A corps spokesman said elements of the U.S. 7th Division today stabbed within two miles of the Manchurian border.

A corps briefing officer said the advance units met only sporadic light resistance, which dwindled to "practically none" this afternoon.

Advances also were reported in three other sectors: U.S. marines moved two miles up the east shore of the great Changlin reservoir of central Korea. South Koreans fought up the northeast coast under cover of American naval guns. And the South Koreans 2nd Corps advanced up to three miles unopposed on the right flank of the northwest front, where the Communists had fought stubbornly until Sunday.

The rapid sweep toward the border carried the 7th Division's 17th regimental combat team through a winter wonderland. Tanks clanked between hills covered with snow. Fluffy white clouds sailed overhead in a bright blue sky.

The expected battle of Kanpou turned into a rout of the Reds Sunday morning. A sharp fight on the hills outside the walled city left scores of North Korean dead. Many were crushed by the treads of tanks on the hillside where they had planned to ambush the American column.

Families Escape Injury When Blast Wrecks Home

All four second-story walls of this two-family Windsor, Ont., house were blown out by an explosion which made eight persons homeless. Mrs. Telephone Faubert and Mrs. Edward Rowe, only ones in the house at the time, said they first knew of the blast when "everything went black and plaster started to fall." Neither was injured.—(CP Photo)

Hostile Crowd At Accident When Woman Driver Hurt

A motorist involved in one of the series of Sunday city accidents was taken from the scene to the police station when officers said "the crowd was getting hostile."

Motorist was William A. Schneider, 867 Viewfield Road. Five witnesses said he had driven through a red light at Government and Johnson Streets.

Schneider's car was in collision with one driven by Jessie Kinneard, 1729 Newton Street, whose late model car finished up on the sidewalk. She was treated at Jubilee Hospital for bruises on the left side.

Damage to vehicles was heavy. Two persons were injured and about $2,500 damage was done to vehicles in the series of collisions. Several drivers will face court charges.

Police listed damage as quite heavy in the Gorge-Balfour Sunday afternoon crash between cars driven by Guy Hamilton, 1005 Oliphant Street, and William S. Duncan, 904 Kingsmill Road.

A spectacular two-car-bus collision occurred at 11 Sunday morning at the south lane of Pandora Avenue and Vancouver Street.

Police said a bus driven by Robert B. Racicot was in collision with a car driven by John K. Johnson. After this the Johnson car collided with a stopped car in charge of Maurice Troop. Considerable damage was done.

Extensive damage was done in the afternoon at Empress and Quadra when cars driven by Charles G. Angall, 382 Palo Alto Avenue, and Robert N. Elliott, 3231 Rutledge Street, collided.

Cars driven by V. B. Oliver, 4021 Saanich Road, and Harold Woodruff, R.R. 1, Victoria, were impounded after they were in collision Saturday night at Fisgard and Blanshard. Police said neither driver had accident insurance.

A bad wound on the back of the head, a cut lip and abrasions to the left knee, were sustained by tourist James Gibbs, 61, of 136 Irene Street, Roseville Calif., a pedestrian. Police said he was struck by a car driven by Ronald B. MacLeod, 745 St. Patrick Street, at Broad and Yates Saturday night.

4 Trains Carry Patricias To Fort Lewis

By CAMERON JAMES

WAINWRIGHT, Alta. (CP)—Four troop trains are snaking today through the Rocky Mountains, carrying part of Canada's Special Brigade on the first leg of its journey to Korea.

Aboard are more than 1,000 members and reinforcements of the 2nd Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry—the only Canadian unit thus far committed to service in Korea.

They are slated to arrive at the giant army camp of Fort Lewis, Wash., some time Tuesday, and will sail for the Far East a few days later.

It is not known yet just what role they will play in Korea, whether they will become part of the Commonwealth brigade or will fight as part of the U.S. army. One thing is fairly certain—barring an unforeseen emergency the Patricias will have at least two months more training before they see any action.

Whatever happens, their commanding officer, Lt.-Col. J. R. (Jim) Stone, D.S.O., M.C., is certain they will be a credit to Canada.

Yesterday he said in an interview that the men of the special force—some reports to the contrary—are well-motivated, intelligent and have absorbed training faster than any he has known. (See "Family Men," page 5.)

Wheat Seizure Ruling

OTTAWA (CP)—The Supreme Court of Canada ruled today that a 1947 order-in-council purporting to authorize the Canadian Wheat Board to seize grain is not valid.

Police Probe Slaying In Swank Ottawa Hotel

OTTAWA (CP)—Police today probed the slaying of Francis J. Sullivan, 52, prominent Toronto lawyer, and held the red-haired, socially-prominent widow on a charge of murder. Sullivan was found bludgeoned to death in a swank tower suite of the Chateau Laurier Hotel early Saturday morning. Police, who complained they were not notified until at least eight hours after the death, are tracking clues they say cooled considerably in the delay.

Meanwhile Mrs. Sullivan, 50, was scheduled to appear in court today. It was believed the case would be remanded following the arraignment, pending the further police investigation.

(At Toronto, Attorney-General Porter said deputy attorney-general C. R. Magone and H. H. Donald, inspector of legal offices, would leave for Ottawa immediately to inquire into the slaying.)

Porter said the two officials would investigate the nine-hour delay between the time the coroner, Dr. Harry Dover, appeared at the suite in the Chateau Laurier, where the body was found and the time police were called.)

MURDER WEAPON FOUND

One possibility police are checking is that the murder weapon was a whisky bottle, the neck of which was found in the hotel suite, the remainder in a club bag of Mrs. Sullivan's.

Mrs. Sullivan, socially prominent in Toronto, was wearing a mink jacket and was "well-studded with jewelry" when arrested. Inspector Borden Hobbs of the Ottawa police department, in charge of the investigation, said she was questioned for "hours" and finally gave a statement.

He did not disclose what was in the statement, but said it was on the basis of this that the charge of murder was laid formally Sunday.

Sullivan, chief solicitor with the Ontario lands and forests department, was found naked in the suite about 3 a.m. Saturday, after Mrs. Sullivan had telephoned the hotel desk and asked for assistance "in getting my husband to bed."

HEAD WOUND FATAL

Hotel officials found the man dead and called Coroner Dover, who had the body transferred to a hospital for an autopsy. The body bore a number of bruises. One of the eyes was blackened and death had been caused by a blow to the back of the head. At the first viewing of the body, Dr. Dover said he could not tell whether there had been foul play. He decided to await the outcome of the autopsy before notifying police—sometime after noon on Saturday.

Mrs. Sullivan—first woman in Ottawa's history to be charged with murder—was arrested about 4 p.m., E.S.T., Saturday afternoon, about 35 miles west of Ottawa. She had arranged with a local funeral parlor to make funeral arrangements and ship the body to Toronto, and apparently had notified Toronto papers of the death. Obituary notices appeared in afternoon editions of the Toronto Star and the Sault Ste. Marie Star.

When taken into custody at Innesville, Ont., she was accompanied by her son, Frank Sullivan, 25, who had flown here from Toronto.

33,000 Phone Employees Go Back To Work

NEW YORK (AP)—More than 33,000 telephone employees returned to work across the United States today under compromise settlements that ended their 11-day strike against units of the huge Bell Telephone system.

In Pittsburgh, news-hungry residents got papers again Saturday following settlement during the week of a strike of mailing-room workers which lasted 47 days. Presses rolled again for the first time since Oct. 1 at the Post-Gazette, Sun-Telegraph and Press, and the papers were eagerly snapped up by waiting crowds.

The telephone agreements were reached Sunday in New York and Detroit, where federal mediators had been seeking peace in the pay dispute.

The break came at the end of a 25-hour marathon bargaining session in New York between Bell's Western Electric Company and division six of the Communications Workers of America (C.I.O.), representing 11,000 equipment installers.

Within a few hours, parallel settlements were announced in subsidiary disputes.

Raid Leads To Narcotics Charge

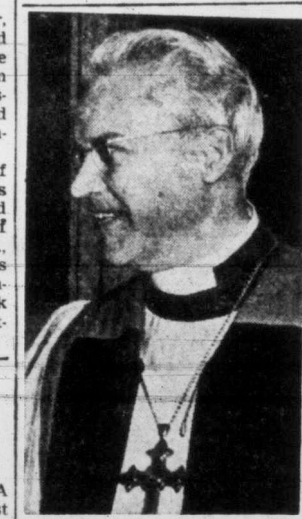

Miriam Wood, Victoria woman, is scheduled to appear in city police court on a charge alleging unlawful possession of narcotics. City police and R.C.M.P. combined in a downtown rooming-house raid Saturday night and arrested the woman. There has been little drug traffic in the city for several years, police say.

One of two men brought in was released. One was examined for drugs in his system. There was not sufficient proof he had taken drugs.

Socialists Win

FRANKFURT (AP)—West German Socialists—fierce opponents of the creation of a new German army to bolster western defence—won a thumping weekend victory in the American occupation zone.

Voters in two states snubbed the powerful Christian Democrats, who dominate the federal west German government and have urged German rearmament.

LATE REV. G. F. KINGSTON

Primate Dies In Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—Most Rev. George Frederick Kingston, D.D., bishop since 1940 and Primate of the Church of England in Canada for the last three years, died today after a week's illness. He was 61.

Archbishop of Nova Scotia, he suffered a heart attack last Monday after coming here from Halifax for a meeting of the Anglican House of Bishops last week and for further church meetings this week.

At his death, Most Rev. W. R. Adams, archbishop of the Yukon and Metropolitan of the Ecclesiastical Province of British Columbia, automatically became acting primate.

Arrangements for the funeral are in charge of the four Metropolitans of the church and the co-adjutor Bishop of Nova Scotia, who will announce details after consulting with Mrs. Kingston.

WHAT'S WRONG WITH VICTORIA?

Doubled Population Spells New Expenditures For Capital City

A private citizen who has made a study of civic problems feels there is room for improvement here. Following is the first of a series of articles which culminate in a constructive suggestion for the consideration of progressive Victorians.

By LEIGHTON MATTHEWS

We, the citizens of Greater Victoria who like to call this "our town," have too often in the past been smug and complacent. The result has been that many opportunities which were rightfully ours have slipped through our grasp. As we enter the latter half of the twentieth century the time is ripe to examine our future.

Victoria is ending a turbulent ten-year period, in which we have doubled our population. All around may be seen the results of large capital expenditures on housing, stores and other commercial developments.

We have been fortunate in that the newcomers to our city have been industrious and progressive, and as a result we are riding the crest of a boom the like of which this city has never before experienced. However, before we allow ourselves to be carried away by the present Foy outlook every citizen in this area should do some constructive thinking about our future course of action and its effect on the citizenry as a whole.

LONG RANGE PLANNING

Unless steps are taken now and some long range planning is undertaken, we will be riding for a fall that will affect every man, woman and child. We must decide just how far we are prepared to go in promoting the visits of tourists to the island; likewise we must be prepared either to encourage the establishment of industries here or possibly lose some of those we now have. We are fortunate in having a large number of civil servants on government payrolls, which gives our economy some semblance of stability.

Against this: The other main employer of labor is the lumber industry and allied trades, such as stevedoring, engineering, etc. The mills in this area are now operating at peak capacity and most of them are operating double shifts.

This market for lumber may not be with us for long, and if orders should fall off the mills may again find themselves in the same position as they were in the 'thirties. If that state of affairs should arise, the results would seriously disrupt the commercial life of this city.

ELIMINATE FRICTION

The tourist trade likewise is not the most stable of enterprises on which to base our commercial life. We are fortunate here in that we are the possessors of Canada's most equable climate. In respect to our labors for the fostering of tourism there is a large difference of opinion. If we are to make a real success of this venture, there must be a united effort, with the elimination of personalities and internal friction among the different groups which are vitally concerned with its promotion.

Probably the biggest stumbling-block to civic progress is in the field of civic and municipal politics. Regardless of the question whether amalgamation is to be a reality or not, any person who has thought about the political structure of Greater Victoria can quite easily assume that if we are to have a progressive city, we must put aside petty inter-municipal rivalries and bend our efforts towards the advancement of the area as a whole.

PETTY RIVALRIES RAMPANT

Petty rivalries are not confined to the council table alone, but are evident in other fields of activity. Men who should be bending their efforts to the advancement of this city's best interests are too often prone to look out for their own selfish ends, or to stifle the constructive efforts of others. It is no secret that this has hampered our efforts in the promotion of tourism and in the development of our harbor and marine activities.

The material is available for formulating a plan of action. There are many people willing to work for our future, and there is no lack of good ideas on what should be done and the best methods of doing it. It only remains to bring these people together to analyze our past mistakes and formulate a program for the future.

To carry out this idea will demand representation from all our service clubs, transportation companies, civic officials, trade groups and others interested in the welfare of our community. (To Be Continued)

Parkville In Drive For Oldsters' Home

PARKVILLE (BUP)—A drive for $20,000 gets underway here Wednesday to finance an upper island senior citizens' home.

Canvass will be conducted from November 22 to 29 from Sayward to Parkville to raise $20,000 for the project. Government grant is expected to provide an additional $10,000.

Site of the home has been chosen overlooking Comox Valley, comprising 56 acres, and containing a building which will be converted.

Mishaps Kill 12

TORONTO (CP)—Twelve persons died violently in eastern Canada during the week-end, 10 in traffic accidents, one in a fall and another in a farm mishap.

'KING AROO' MAKES DEBUT

A brand new comic strip, "King Aroo," starts in The Times today. It's pure fantasy and whimsy. It's a story about a non-existent king in a never-never kingdom, and his vicer, cook and handyman, the incredible Yuppoo.

We think you'll find "King Aroo" one of the brightest newcomers in years. Start following him today, on page 19.

Doctor Pleads For Death Car Driver

John Farmer Reported In Poor
Physical Shape; Remanded Again

The poor physical and nervous condition of John Farmer, 85, of 1706 Kings Road, self-confessed driver of the car which struck and killed 80-year-old William Savidge Nov. 10 on Douglas Street, was described by Dr. Albert G. Vey today in city police court.

Farmer today formally pleaded guilty to a charge of failing to remain at the scene of an accident. He appeared more composed than on his first appearance, but still had a quiver in his voice.

On the application of counsel E. V. Finland, Magistrate Hall continued bail—$500 in cash—to enable Farmer to remain out of jail. He was remanded to Wednesday to produce further information to the court and possible sentence.

MOST REV. G. F. KINGSTON

Primate Dies During Visit In Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—Most Rev. George Frederick Kingston, D.D., bishop since 1940 and Primate of the Church of England in Canada for the last three years, died today after a week's illness. He was 61.

Archbishop of Nova Scotia, he suffered a heart attack last Monday after coming here from Halifax for a meeting of the Anglican House of Bishops.

At his death, Most Rev. W. R. Adams, bishop of the Yukon and Metropolitan of the Ecclesiastical Province of British Columbia, automatically became acting primate.

On his ordination, Dr. Kingston spent 24 years as a college professor.

Archbishop Kingston married Florence Belle Brown of Wolfville, N.S., in 1919. She survives him. Their son, Rev. F. Temple Kingston, flew to Toronto last week from H.M.C.S. Cornwallis, where he is naval padre, to be at his father's bedside.

Archbishop Kingston visited Victoria about a year ago in the course of a tour as Primate which took him to all the dioceses across Canada and preached in Christ Church Cathedral.

Use Canadian Guns

TOKYO (AP)—The Chinese Communist 38th Army which crossed from Manchuria into Korea one month ago carried a motley collection of weapons, including Canadian machine guns and mortars, an intelligence officer at Gen. MacArthur's headquarters said today. The officer said he did not know the source of the Canadian weapons.

OVERCOATS, FURNACES WILL REMAIN IN STYLE

Heavy showers today followed a brief but blustery Sunday evening storm which swept Victoria.

And the weatherman atop Gonzales Hill could give little promise of much improvement. The overcast and its accompanying showers are scheduled to continue through Tuesday.

The Prospect Lake area was without power for about an hour and a half late Sunday afternoon, and the Estevan Avenue-Cadboro Bay Road section had the same trouble for the same length of time starting at 9.07 at night.

There was no other power trouble, a B.C. Electric spokesman reported. (See earlier story, Page Two.)

Wismer Is 'Amazed' By Alberta Licensing Plan

British Columbia Attorney-General Gordon Wismer today expressed surprise at the Alberta government's move to control professional services.

Mr. Wismer said that although there doesn't appear to be a constitutional question, he was "amazed at the step."

He said he "personally wouldn't favor the move," and added that it didn't appear natural for a government to take such a step in the democratic days.

Meanwhile, according to British United Press, the Alberta College of Physicians and Surgeons protested directly today against the provincial government's plan to take over licensing of professional people in the province.

The college asked that it be allowed to continue the present administrative system under which it grants the licenses.

The college made a submission to the government, stating that the present system was functioning efficiently in the public interest, while the government's move "appears to reflect want-of-confidence" in the medical organization.

Wife Of Slain Ottawa Lawyer Silent At Hearing

OTTAWA (CP)—Marion Sullivan, 50, her face pale and drawn, today made a brief silent appearance in city court, charged with the murder of her husband, grey-haired, 52-year-old Francis J. Sullivan, prominent Toronto lawyer.

The chief solicitor for the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests was found bludgeoned to death early Saturday in a swank tower suite of the downtown Chateau Laurier Hotel, home of cabinet ministers and members of Parliament.

The socially well-known Mrs. Sullivan, holding a blue coat over her arm, finally stood before the court filled with spectators to hear the charge of murder read out by the court clerk.

She was taken quickly out of the room after Crown attorney Raoul Mercier sought and obtained a week's remand of the hearing, on the understanding that still another week's remand would be sought when the former Marion Gough made her second appearance in court.

Ottawa Case Unprecedented

Main reason for the Crown's call for remand, police disclosed, was the need to clear up "an avalanche of detail" in the first case in Ottawa's history of a woman charged with murder.

They called attention to an eight-hour delay between the time the coroner, Dr. Harry Dover, viewed the body on the first residential floor of the chateau and the time he called police into the case.

Dr. Dover told the Canadian Press that he delayed calling police because he was not certain that foul play was involved.

He fixed the time of death at "some time" before 1 a.m. (E.S.T.) Saturday. He was not called to the scene until about 4 a.m.

When Edward Stockfish, the hotel detective, arrived, he found the nude body of Sullivan lying on the floor beside the bed. He called house physician, Dr. Lorne Gardner. Gardner immediately called Dr. Dover.

"When I arrived at the suite," said Dr. Dover, "I examined the body and found scratches on the shoulders, as though someone had tried to hold him, a blackened eye, bruises on the face.

"The back of the head was beaten as with a blunt weapon. Sullivan died of brain hemorrhage.

Dr. Dover said Mrs. Sullivan told him, in reply to a question, that there had been no struggle. Dr. Dover quoted Mrs. Sullivan as saying that her husband had fallen to the floor in the bedroom of their suite and apparently injured himself.

Following normal routine, Dr. Dover said, he had the body transferred to Civic Hospital for an autopsy. There had been delay at the hospital.

When police finally were called—at noon Saturday—they found an empty 26-ounce whisky bottle in the room and the neck of another whisky bottle.

By that time, Mrs. Sullivan had checked out of the hotel, approximately at 11.35 a.m., and headed back to Toronto by motor car, with her son, 20-year-old Frank J. Sullivan, and a distant relative, Mrs. J. J. Heney of Ottawa.

The license number was broadcast to district police and the car was halted by Ontario provincial police on Highway 15, near Innesville, some 35 miles west of Ottawa.

Young Frank, who had flown from Toronto after his mother telephoned him, told a reporter later that he and his 16-year-old sister, Anne, in a Montreal convent, had complete faith in their mother's innocence.

Mrs. Sullivan, daughter of the late Richard Gough, partner in the firm of Sellers-Gough, widely-known Toronto fur merchants, was placed in county jail and given "regulation fare." No bail is granted in a murder charge.

Inspector Hobbs said police found part of an empty ginger ale bottle in Mrs. Sullivan's luggage and it was sent to police laboratories for examination. Earlier the inspector had identified the bottle as a whisky bottle.

Still hazy are the events which transpired after Dr. Dover had called police.

Police said that when her son arrived, Mrs. Sullivan apparently went with him to a local undertaking establishment to select a casket and made arrangements to have the body shipped to Toronto, when released by Ottawa authorities.

Though the death had not been made public in Ottawa until late Saturday afternoon, death notices appeared that same afternoon in the Toronto Star and the Sault Ste. Marie Star. There was no information here as to who had ordered the notices inserted.

Ban On Board
Seizing Grain

OTTAWA (CP)—The Supreme Court of Canada ruled today that a 1947 order-in-council purporting to authorize the Canadian Wheat Board to seize grain is not valid.

The order-in-council dealt with barley and oats.

The high court confirmed a decision of the Manitoba Court of Appeal declaring the Emergency Transitional Powers Act does not give the cabinet authority to confer seizure power on the board, a federal agency.

It upheld an action taken by the Winnipeg firm of Hallett and Carey Ltd. and J. T. Nolan, Chicago grain trader, against the seizure of barley owned by Nolan under the 1947 order-in-council.

'KING AROO' MAKES DEBUT

A brand new comic strip, "King Aroo," starts in The Times today. It's pure fantasy and whimsy. It's a story about a non-existent king in a never-never kingdom, and his vicer, cook and handyman, the incredible Yuyup.

We think you'll find "King Aroo" one of the brightest newcomers in years. Start following him today, on page 19.

ONE WOMAN'S DAY

By NANCY HODGES

SHERLOCK HOLMES' ECHO

ADDICTS OF "WHODUNITS"—and their name seems to be legion—are no doubt intrigued by the recent controversy aroused in England by the proposed sale of 221B Baker Street, the legendary home of Conan Doyle's famous sleuth, Sherlock Holmes.

News items from London indicated that the house where the fictional detective did most of his delvings and deductions into the doings of such arch-criminals as Professor Moriarty, will be included in a 28-acre property to be sold by Lord Portman next year, in an effort to recoup the family purse so sorely depleted by the £5,000,000 death duties imposed following his father's death in 1948.

CASE OF CALLOUS COUNCIL

THAT ANNOUNCEMENT was followed by suggestions that the Baker Street house be acquired by the authorities for an exhibition of Sherlockiana, as part of the Festival of Britain, or else preserved intact as a shrine to the memory of the immortal progenitor of all the sleuths who stalk through the pages of today's "whodunits."

But the St. Marylebone Borough Council, under whose jurisdiction the property comes, didn't see it that way, so they voted against it. That did it! From all over Britain devotees of the Sherlock Holmes cult picked up their pens, dipped them in wit—or vitriol—and attacked the callous council through the "letters to the editor" column of The Times.

COLUMNS OF CASTIGATION

DOZENS OF SUCH communications appeared in its decorous columns, castigating those who would thus deny honors to the master mind who had brought world fame to dingy Baker Street. And I chuckled at the sly allusions to Conan Doyle's interest in spiritualism which took the form of letters, purportedly written by characters, sinister and otherwise, associated in the author's stories with Sherlock Holmes, for they exemplified British indulgence in wit and whimsy.

Among such earth-bound, spiritualist correspondents were Dr. Watson, Holmes' famous medical man Friday; Kate Whitney, widow of the victim in the horrible case of The Man With the Twisted Lip; and Oscar Meunier, the employee of Mme. Tussaud's who made the waxworks bust of Holmes that was demolished by Col. Moran's argun bullet.

VIRTUE TRIUMPHS

THAT BARRAGE had its effect and the council finally gave way—after several of its members had also expressed their contrite views in the same columns, by the way. And now 221B Baker Street will be devoted to an exhibition of Sherlockiana as part of Britain's Festival next year. Such a conclusion would no doubt evoke Holmes' famous commentary: "Elementary, my dear Watson!"

It has also been suggested—in the same columns—that was effigies of Holmes, Dr. Watson and some of the criminals whose wicked machinations they foiled by their joint efforts be included in Mme. Tussaud's famous waxworks show, which is only a few yards from the Baker Street house.

'YANKS' AROUSED

AFTER READING The Times letters, I was almost sorry that the controversy had ended before the Americans got into action. For Sherlock Holmes—who, incidentally, was "born" about 1887—still boasts many fans in the United States. The Baker Street Journal, taking its name from Holmes' old address, is devoted solely to Sherlockiana, and is published in New York, having thousands of readers.

There are numerous Sherlock Societies throughout the country, such as The Seventeen Steps of Los Angeles, The Speckled Band of Boston, The Five Orange Pips of Westchester, N.Y., and The Scandalous Bohemians of Akron, O.

BAKER STREET IRREGULARS

THEN THERE is the large and flourishing Society of Baker Street Irregulars, dedicated to "keeping green the memory of Sherlock Holmes." At every meeting they sing their song, to the tune of "Mandalay," which concludes with the lines:

"O ye sons of Baker Street,
As we sit at Sherlock's feet,
Be ye sure the land that knew him shall not ever know defeat,
For the men of England's fleet
Once again their foes will beat,
Nor shall enemy armies ever tread the stones of Baker Street."

Which reminds us that the famous sleuth worked more wonders than even his deduction—detecting would lead us to believe—he helped to "sell" abroad the British characteristic of refusing to admit defeat and, after all these years, still serves as an undying ambassador of good will.

Victoria Funeral For Son Of Late Prime Minister

John Wende Fraser Tolmie, 51, son of a former British Columbia premier, died at his home in Vancouver Saturday following a heart attack.

Mr. Tolmie was the elder son of the late Dr. Simon Fraser Tolmie, B.C. premier in 1928. He was born in Victoria and educated at University School.

Following his graduation he joined the air force and served during the First World War. An engineer, he spent his entire life in Victoria except for eight years with the Saudi Arabian Mining and Smelting Co. in Arabia.

He came to Vancouver from Arabia on his retirement last year.

Surviving are his widow, Olive; two sisters, Mrs. L. R. Andrews, West Vancouver, and Mrs. J. St. Clair Harvey, Bristol, England, and one brother, William Fraser Tolmie, Victoria.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday in Victoria.

The Timid Soul

BY R. T. WEBSTER

WILL BE TOUGH CHRISTMAS

Visiting Sailors Get $6 Every Seven Days

By HUMPHRY DAVY

You may think your take-home pay is small with the high cost of living but you've got nothing to grouch about. You are sitting pretty compared to the crew of the Royal Navy survey ship Challenger who will spend Christmas in Victoria.

Since the ship's arrival for work off the west coast, the British tars have seen their pay dwindle dangerously close to the zero mark due to the value of the pound sterling. Their Christmas shopping this year will have to be done at the "five and ten" and even there they are going to find things expensive.

Take, for example, the married able seamen. On their arrival in Victoria they found their pay amounted to about $6 a week in Canadian currency. A rating in the Canadian navy gets about four times as much.

Their basic pay in British money is about four pounds. They found they were making good money anywhere in the sterling area, but not in Canada.

What happened was this. First, due to the exchange rates, the seaman lost about $11 when he converted his pound notes into Canadian money. Then the navy took another slice off his pay for family allowance. That left him with his $6 to enjoy a few luxuries such as tobacco, a movie and car fare.

A leading seaman is a little better off. He can afford an occasional glass of ale. He gets about $8.

SWALLOW PRIDE

A chief petty officer, whose pay is the envy of all lower ranks, gets between $24 and $19 in Canadian currency. He has had to swallow his pride. He receives about the same money as lowest rank in the Canadian Navy.

In British money, a petty officer gets over eight pounds. If British and Canadian currency had the same value he would be getting paid as much as a Canadian seaman of the same rank. That goes for all ranks.

To make matters worse, the British Chancellor of the Exchequer, who has been in a mean mood since 1945, won't allow the crew members to draw their savings from British banks.

Ratepayers To Vote On Building Project

LAKE COWICHAN—Ratepayers of Lake Cowichan School District No. 66 will vote Nov. 27 for two-year trustees and for permission to spend savings on the recent building of additions at the high school. Proposed construction includes two more classrooms at the high school, school bus garage and bus stalls at Lake Cowichan, drainage and ground work at elementary schools, and fencing on three side of Mount School at Youbou. Total cost of proposed work is $28,000.

6 Inches Of Snow At Cowichan Lake

Forty-two Mile Wind In Victoria Starts Series Of Chimney Fires

A whistling southeast wind accompanied by driving rain had Victorians stoking Sunday night, but little damage was reported from the blow. Snow fell at many up-island points.

Winds holding steady at 42 miles per hour with gusts up to 48 were recorded at Gonzales Hill observatory around 10, decreasing to about half that velocity at 11.30.

On the mainland and up-island, snow and sleet fell. There was a sprinkling at Nanaimo, but around Lake Cowichan and Youbou about an inch and a half was reported.

Most logging operations in the area were reported to be carrying on, however.

About six inches of snow now blankets much of the Cowichan Lake district after falls over the past several days.

In Victoria, firemen had seven runs from 4.37 Sunday afternoon till 10.17 at night. Alarms were for wind-inspired chimney fires at 61 Gorge Road, 2836 Douglas, 1631 Myrtle, 313 Montreal, 790 Fairfield, and 14 Government. There was a smoke scare at 1030 Bay Street.

Saanich firemen put out a chimney fire at 2151 Ferndale Road at 4.43 Sunday afternoon. Esquimalt and Oak Bay firemen were inactive.

Blind Veteran Recalls Grim Memory Of Christmas Eve In First World War

Thousands of soldiers will spend this Christmas far from home, in the strange and cold terrain of Korea. Headed by Brig. W. G. "Shanty" Colquhoun, Victorians are attempting to raise—by this Wednesday night—$2,000, so these men will have some Christmas parcels.

By HARRIS TURNER

There was a lull in the firing on Christmas Eve. There was a lull but a sort of uneasy, insecure, watchful recognition that on this particular night it was not quite "cricket" to let loose the shells and bombs and bullets against the enemy occupants of the territory on the other side of No Man's Land. The men in the low camouflaged huts a mile or two behind the line wore on their shoulders the little red flashes with the white letters "P.P.C.L.L." indicating that they belonged to a regiment known and loved in every part of Canada, for there was no town or city in the Dominion which was not "home" to one or more of them.

Some working parties came in from the trenches reporting that the nearest thing to peace that they had known for many months prevailed along the frozen battle line. The men in the hut were tired and busy with their thoughts. To Private Jackson it suddenly occurred that he was far from home; farther than he had ever been or felt before; the mail had not come up the previous day. He thought of what he was missing at home, but was not long before his dreams replaced his thoughts, and glittering scenes of joyous Christmas blessed his heavy sleep.

COLD, DULL MORNING

The sentry woke the men up to a cold, dull morning. "Merry Christmas," said the corporal in a discouraged voice.

"Merry Christmas," said Jackson with the fragments of a happy dream still insecurely present in his reviving brain. Then, as he looked around the smoke-grimed hut, felt the chill in his bones, smelled the soggy smell of the damp blanket hanging over the door, and looked at the tired, young, dirty faces of his companions as they struggled from their blankets, he said "Shut up!" and felt better.

NO COOKS

The coke had not come up with the rations the night before, and as there was scarcely any wood about the place, there was no fire in the brazier. The men shaved cold, recoiling faces with cold water and numb fingers. They would get tea, bacon and bread back in the little hollow between the hills where the camp cook stove stood in the open air. The cooks were not there and the camp stoves were cold. There wasn't any bacon and ham and there wasn't any bread.

"Merry Christmas," said Pte. Worth to Pte. Jackson.

"Ah, shut-up," said Jackson. "You're only making it worse. Just now I changed places with some of those guys in Chinatown in Victoria. I guess they're doing all right."

"Yeah," said Worth. "I know a place in the village where we might get something to eat," said Jackson. "I wonder where those cooks are."

It started to rain. The soldiers made their way to a little hut, still trying to do business in the broken village. The women cooked them a pork chop and two fried eggs each. Their clothes steamed and smelled by the hot, old iron stove. They lit their pipes. The rain fell and froze.

"You know," said Jackson, "it doesn't seem quite like Christmas to me. Do you remember back in Victoria how the people used to put Christmas wreaths and little trees all lit up in their windows, and some had colored lights on live trees in their front yards. My old man used to get his house so dolled up with Christmas stuff, that you'd think Santa Claus lived there. And do you remember those strings of colored lights across the streets, and how the Parliament Buildings and Empress Hotel were illuminated?"

"Gee," said Worth. "The sound of gunfire in the distance reached their ears. 'I prefer Christmas carols,' said Worth. A sergeant appeared at the door. 'Come on, boys,' he said. 'You're for it. Your company goes into the line in an hour. Merry Christmas.'

Jackson and Worth went back to the hut, packed up their gear, and joined the other members of the company as they fell in on a rough road in front of the camp. "It looks as if the rain would turn to snow," said Jackson. "You know," said Worth, "I wouldn't mind this so much if the parcels had come through from home. I wonder what has happened to them."

"Stop smoking, and stop talking," ordered the sergeant. "If the enemy spots us, you'll get some Christmas parcels you don't like."

Crowd Hostile As Woman Driver Hit

Man Taken From Accident Scene After Collision On Government

A motorist involved in one of the series of Sunday city accidents was taken from the scene to the police station when officers said "the crowd was getting hostile."

Motorist was William A. Schneider, 867 Viewfield Road. Five witnesses said he had driven through a red light at Government and Johnson Streets.

Schneider's car was in collision with one driven by Jessie Kinneard, 1729 Newton Street, whose late model car finished up on the sidewalk. She was treated at Jubilee Hospital for bruises on the left side.

Damage to vehicles was heavy. Two persons were injured and about $2,500 damage was done to vehicles in the series of collisions. Several drivers will face court charges.

Police listed damage as quite heavy in the Gorge-Balfour Sunday afternoon crash between cars driven by Guy Hamilton, 1005 Oliphant Street, and William S. Duncan, 904 Kingsmill Road.

BUS-CAR COLLISION

A spectacular two-carbus collision occurred at 11 Sunday morning at the south lane of Pandora Avenue and Vancouver Street.

Police said a bus driven by Robert B. Racicot was in collision with a car driven by John K. Johnson. After this the Johnson car collided with a stopped car in charge of Maurice Troop. Considerable damage was done.

Extensive damage was done in the afternoon at Empress and Quadra when cars driven by Charles G. Angall, 382 Palo Alto Avenue, and Robert N. Elliott, 3231 Rutledge Street, collided.

Cars driven by V. B. Olliver, 4021 Saanich Road, and Harold Woodruff, R.R. 1, Victoria, were impounded after they were in collision Saturday night at Fildgar and Blanshard. Police said neither driver had accident insurance.

A bad wound on the back of the head, a cut lip and abrasions to the left knee, were sustained by tourist James Gibb, 61, of 136 Irene Street, Roseville Calif., a pedestrian. Police said he was struck by a car driven by Ronald B. MacLeod, 745 St. Patrick Street, at Broad and Yates Saturday night.

Pats Go Through Rockies To Embark At Fort Lewis

By CAMERON JAMES

WAINWRIGHT, Alta. (CP)—Four troop trains are snaking today through the Rocky Mountains, carrying part of Canada's Special Brigade on the first leg of its journey to Korea.

Aboard are more than 1,000 members and reinforcements of the 2nd Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry—the only Canadian unit thus far committed to service in Korea.

They are slated to arrive at the giant army camp of Fort Lewis, Wash., some time Tuesday, and will sail for the Far East a few days later.

It is not known yet just what role they will play in Korea, whether they will become part of the Commonwealth brigade or will fight as part of the U.S. army. One thing is fairly certain—barring an unforeseen emergency the Patricia's will have at least two months more training before they see any action.

33,000 Phone Employees Go Back To Work

NEW YORK (AP)—More than 33,000 telephone employees returned to work across the United States today under compromise settlements that ended their 11-day strike against units of the huge Bell Telephone system.

In Pittsburgh, news-hungry residents got papers again Saturday following settlement during the week of a strike of mailing-room workers which lasted 47 days. Presses rolled again for the first time since Oct. 1 at the Post-Gazette, Sun-Telegraph and Press, and the papers were eagerly snapped up by waiting crowds.

The telephone agreements were reached Sunday in New York and Detroit, where federal mediators had been seeking peace in the pay dispute.

Did They Protest Too Much?

THE PECULIAR REMARKS OF DR. Leopold Infeld, self-repatriated Pole, and a certain Dr. Christopher Woodward, Conservative member of Ealing Borough Council, made the headlines in The Canadian Press report of the Communist-sponsored "World Peace Conference" in Warsaw last Friday. But the significant development at that gathering was couched in less sensational terms. The news gathering agency noted that:

"Behind the scenes, the Danes, particularly, were asking whether the congress is so overweighed with Communist tendencies that it fails to win widespread support."

At the time of writing, it may have been only a question to the Danes. In many of the other peace-loving countries, no question existed. The conference was seen by them as a typical Communist propaganda arrangement that furnished opportunities to call countries opposed to Russian ideas war-mongers, aggressors and the like.

In line with this was the resolution of Soviet writer Ilya Ehrenburg that the parliaments of all countries make laws prohibiting war propaganda. Supporting his proposal, he declared that if a Russian minister of war were to speak openly of bombing America—as an American official had spoken of the U.S.S.R. as a possible target—the Russian people would confine him to an asylum. The ill-natured and provocative tirades which Soviet spokesmen deliver at most international conferences are apparently not included in the same category of "war-mongering."

Western democracies expected little of a constructive nature from the Warsaw meeting. The cause of peace may have been served, however, if the question which has disturbed the Danes has penetrated to other groups who have looked through rose-colored glasses at Moscow leadership. There could be positive values in the misgivings which have been aroused by Russophiles who presumably thought themselves preaching to the converted, but who may find the urgency of their appeals has shaken the confidence of potential followers.

Mt. Brenton Action Needed Now

THE NATURE OF THE SUPPORT given to the campaign to have Mount Brenton reserved for parks purposes indicates the widespread approval of the scheme. That support has come from public and private bodies, from here to Nanaimo, which recognize the tract as an ideal winter and summer playground for the most densely populated part of Vancouver Island. Among other things, it provides excellent ski grounds at a distance which can be reached by an hour and one-half's drive from this city. In addition to that, its proponents have convinced supporters that the territory offers excellent facilities for summer outings, camping and fishing.

Mount Brenton is already a popular locality for many snow sport enthusiasts here. Under present ownership, however, it may exist as such for a limited time only. As the brief of the Outdoor Club of Victoria, prime mover in having it declared a park, points out, logging operations are already under way on the lower eastern bluffs. If action is not taken now, the whole area may be denuded of trees by next summer and any possibility of making it a park would be lost.

For that reason the provincial government should hasten to secure the region, by exchange of other crown land or by other means. It seems to be one of the most desirable locations available for a type of recreation which is increasing in popularity, and which is enthusiastically endorsed by the parks division of the Department of Lands and Forests.

A brief seeking action has already been presented. In the public interest, both immediate and future, the request deserves more than sympathetic consideration. It calls for action to protect an asset that could be lost through delay.

Ready For The Saboteurs

IN VIEW OF THE UNSETTLED STATE of the world, it was appropriate that Justice Minister Stuart Garson should have issued assurance last week that the R.C.M.P. has a comprehensive security program prepared in case outright hostilities with the Communists should become a reality. He announced that the precautions are "well matured" and that some of the plans, indeed, are already in operation.

It was interesting to note that in describing the general picture of preparedness, Mr. Garson did not have to depend on theoretical supposition in predicting what might be expected from Communists in this country. Their actions during the last war, before Russia became an ally of the democracies, provided sufficient evidence of what would happen in another similar circumstance. The minister recalled how Canadian Communists had "carried on a campaign of obstruction, disaffection and other subversive and illegal acts."

It is unpleasant to consider that a group of traitors exists in the Dominion, however small their number may be. But it is heartening to know that their activities are sufficiently well known and their identities sufficiently clear to ensure that in an emergency the first sign of disloyalty would result in their instant removal from circulation.

Coming Use Of Jet Airlines Poses New Operation Problems

By CHARLES GARDNER, from London

ONE of the top levels of priority among problems which have been referred to British research scientists is that of how to handle jet airliners.

It is a job which already has time on its heels: by 1951 or early 1952 both British European Airways and B.O.A.C. hope to be using jets—the former the Viscount turbo-prop and B.O.A.C. the 500-m.p.h. Comet. Of the two, B.O.A.C.'s need is the greater. The Comet is scheduled for worldwide use and there must be no danger of her being held up by lack of ground facilities.

NEW APPARATUS

The Viscount with its lower fuel consumption and shorter routes is less revolutionary and more elastic. But with the Comet, new apparatus and new techniques are having to keep pace with a plane which flies twice as fast and twice as high as any now in service.

I have just been talking to a scientific engineer who says that this pace will be matched. He is Air Commodore Colin Cadell, head of International Aeradio, the British concern to which so many countries go for advice and help on air control matters.

Nearly all the biggest headaches, he said, are ones of communication—either from aerodrome to aerodrome on the ground or from an aircraft itself to its next port of call.

It is a commonplace that any jet liner with its relatively high fuel consumption must have a snappy air-traffic control system especially when it is ready to land. Delays and a long wait for a landing turn just cannot be accepted. To avoid this the airfield of arrival must know when such a liner is due and it must know when it has taken off so that necessary preparations can be made. After all at 500 m.p.h. there is little enough time to play with.

Teleprinter or radio teleprinter systems are needed, especially at places where, until now the quickest way to notify the next airfield of a departure has been to send the message in an envelope inside the plane itself. Air Commodore Cadell hopes that new apparatus devised by International Aeradio and British Radio Industry will meet these needs.

A plane like the Comet will cruise at 35,000 to 40,000 feet and the pilot may want to start his "let down" when still some 200 miles away. The last thing he wants to do is to come down, only to find he has to go up again.

From this situation, we have a clear requirement for an airfield to be able to speak to the pilot while he is still at least 200 miles away. The ordinary radio telephone has a range only of 250 miles and after that the curvature of the earth gets in the way. So now the scientists are considering the use of a high frequency radio telephone of some 2,000 miles' range.

And what is going to happen when all airlines are jets and they are using airports at the rate of one plane every few minutes?

I asked Air Commodore Cadell this and he replied "A lot of people are working on that now." My guess is that nearly all the "sorting out" will have to be done by automatic electronic devices which pilots will have to dialing telephones in their cockpits.

And by when will that be necessary? Air Commodore Cadell would not guess—but my own forecast is by 1955 at the latest.

Loose Ends

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

A FEW days ago, in a country churchyard hard by the Red River, they buried the greatest man I have ever known and, by the consent of those best qualified to know, the greatest Canadian of his time. The name of this man was Edgar Tarr. I dare say you never heard his name before. That doesn't matter, least of all to Edgar.

He was great despite and perhaps because of his anonymity. He was a Governor of the Bank of Canada and expert financier.

He worked his work quietly behind the scenes, never ran for office or sought a headline, but everyone in Ottawa knew that few Canadians of this generation had a more powerful effect on the nation's affairs.

THERE was greatness in this power—the greater because it was so quiet, so subtle and so sure—but the public tributes at his graveside, the presence of notables from all over the country, did not suggest the dimensions of this man. Suffice it to say here that his friendship was one of the decisive facts in the lives of all who knew him.

Standing in that frozen churchyard, where the Red River settlers built their log shacks a century and a half ago, one meditated not only on the man who was buried here but on the curious facts of power within Canada.

THIS is a business complicated and incalculable beyond understanding.

Final power, we say, rests in Parliament by law. But no one who has seen the naked anatomy of politics believes in that law, least of all the parliamentary backbencher. Power under our system has shifted from the legislature to the executive. This is obvious enough but not so obvious is the further shift from the cabinet to the civil service, and to the small corps of informal advisers who make the policies to be proclaimed by the Government as its own. Our national centre of gravity rests invisibly on the shoulders of unknown men.

If one were compelled to make a list of the dozen most powerful men in Canada today only two or three cabinet ministers would be included. The rest would be civil servants—at least one of them in a relatively low-paid category—a few business tycoons and perhaps one journalist. There would be no British Columbian in the list.

It is now an established and fascinating parlor game in the long Canadian winter evenings to frame such a roster of power just as dressmakers pick the 10 best-dressed women of America. Every person entitled to make such a judgment will frame a different list but all will agree on about half the names—and few of these names will be well known to the public.

ALL this is very disillusioning and maybe it should be kept from the young. The myths of the democratic systems are worth maintaining since nations always live more by myths than by facts. Provided the myths are wholesome, the nation will live well. The hard fact, however, is that power does not lie where the textbooks say but wherever you find it. You find it in the queerest places.

The most striking fact about real power is the selfishness of the men who wield it. Few of them make any money to speak of. The best of them never seek fame. Some want power for its sake and relish its secret exercise but most of our governors are interested only in what they consider the welfare of the nation. Having seen both from the inside, I conclude that the world of politics, on the whole, is more honest and further-sighted than the world of business.

IT is here that democracy comes in—not by the direct methods of the constitution as most people imagine but indirectly, invisibly, and yet with resistless power. For the men who have power, though they can dominate governments and often by-pass Parliament, are in the end the prisoners of public opinion.

Every man of power thinks he knows what is good for the country. That is the test of his troubles. The real problem of power in the democratic state is to persuade the country to accept what is thought to be good for it. That, indeed, is what politics is man about—not to construct sound policies in vacuum but to find the compromise and the common denominator which a majority of the public will accept. Hence there is seldom if ever a thoroughly good policy but only the best policy enforceable at any given time.

THIS fact, however, is the last thing that democratic politicians can admit. According to another myth, the politician must always appear to know what he is doing when, of course, he seldom can. The great and complex issues have to be discussed in symbols, slogans and clichés—a kind of ponderous baby talk—because the public is not considered adult enough to understand the talk of grown-up men. In Ottawa a special language is spoken as unlike the language of the platform, the radio and the newspaper as Arabic is from English. Hence such vague ruminations as these, which only confuse you as I am bound to admit, they confuse me.

Such (rich) children can't struggle, because they've never learned to struggle. If their wealth were to disappear, they'd be helpless, because they never learned to exert themselves. Their prosperity causes them to depend on things rather than ideas.—Recreation specialist Charles Thornton.

As Our Readers See It

AVERT VS. DIVERT

These twins must feel terribly important with all this controversy raging around them, and how their ears must tingle. I think we had better leave them alone after this, it will only make them worse.

Mr. Mather's Dutchmen, foreseeing calamity approaching in their direction, avoided, averted, diverted or turned it from its course by the simple expedient of diverting the river (quite an operation).

Mr. Mather is quite right. Noah not Daniel Webster. Through a slight lapse of memory, he got under my guard, which shows that even the truly great will err at times (Mr. Mather excepted of course).

Well, every one is entitled to their opinion and mine is that Webster did not err when he gave the identical meaning to those two words. Nomenclature is a fickle jade; words that meant one thing in Shakespeare's day, have another meaning today. Hence the many foot notes at the bottom of nearly every page in the great author's works.

If one can avert the eyes from an object, or avert one's anger (Milton), or avert a person from going to church (Bacon) why cannot one avert a person's mind from any given object?

SHAW'S BELIEF

Whether Bernard Shaw's ashes are to rest in Westminster Abbey would seem to depend on whether he was a believer in God. In his book, "And Another Thing," Howard Spring gives us Shaw's own words on the subject, as follows:

"He (the statesman) must not look to God to do his work for him. He must regard himself as the fallible servant of a fallible God, acting for God and thinking for God, because God, being unable to effect this purpose without hands or brains, He made us to evoke our hands and brains to act and think for Him. In short, we are not in the hands of God, but God is in our hands. A ruler must not say helplessly 'Thy will be done'; he must divine it, find out how to do it and have it done. His God must not be an existing Omnipotent, Omniscent Perfection, but as yet only an ideal towards which creative evolution is striving, with mankind merely its best attempt so far—and a very unsatisfactory one at that—liable to be replaced at any moment if creative evolution gives it up as hopeless."

Could this have been a tongue in the cheek, provocative statement? Howard Spring seems to regard it as Shaw's considered belief. But if it is to be taken seriously, what intellectual arrogance Shaw shows in declaring that God, the Creator of the Universe, has no brains! In the allegory "Job," we read "The Lord answered Job out of the whirlwind and said, 'Who is this that darkens counsel by words without knowledge? Where wast thou when I laid the foundations of the earth?'"

WELFARE PLANS

I am 100% for Hospital Insurance but not for the obnoxious one you have in B.C. Why didn't the B.C. Government adopt the British or the Scandinavian Hospital Insurance policy? The B.C. Hospital Insurance act is obnoxious. Also your B.C. Old Age Pension. Forty dollars a month—not before they are 70. (It is not $30 a month).

Here is a case in point. A man is 70, his wife is 63. She at 65 years cannot get pension until she is 70. The two of them cannot live on his $40 a month pension so he has to keep on working until he is 75 before two of them get the pension. In Britain women get the pension at 60 and men at 65.

This man has never been in hospital since the B.C. Hospital Insurance came into force. Yet he is threatened with a jail sentence if he does not pay his hospital insurance in advance. Your members of parliament raised their salaries from $4,000 to $6,000 tax free for about six weeks work—one session.

HIGH COSTS

Should the threatened increase in milk prices materialize, Victoria's unenviable reputation of being one of the most expensive cities in Canada in which to live, will receive a further shameful boost. Something smells here—and it isn't only the Inner Harbor at low tide. There is too much spread between the cost of living in Victoria and that in most other Canadian cities.

Vancouver, only about 83 miles distant, is easier on the pocketbook of the housewife by 10 per cent, at least. And the mainland city has a higher cost-of-living than the vast majority of cities east of the Rockies. Even Nanaimo, closer to Vancouver, admittedly, but an island city in the same sense as is Victoria, boasts of lower grocery prices than those that prevail locally.

One can run the gamut of commodities and services that enter into daily living, and deplorably few, if any, are the same cost or lower than they are elsewhere. Hospital rates are probably the highest in Canada. In fact, there is such a difference between local hospital fees and those currently being charged on the prairies and in the east, that one wonders whether incompetence and mismanagement are rampant in such Victoria institutions. No wonder the B.C. Hospital Insurance Service is in the red!

Are local purveyors of merchandise and services gouging a gullible public? I'm from Missouri when the stock solution to the higher costs prevalent here is given as additional freight charges. In Vancouver, 15 fluid oz. cans of evaporated milk retail at two for 28¢; in Victoria, the price is two for 31¢. Surely the freight charge on one can of milk between Vancouver and Victoria is not 1½¢ a can!

I firmly believe that an investigation into the local price set-up is long overdue, and it would seem to me that the newspapers are in a good position to start the ball rolling. How about it, Mr. Editor? It is doubtful whether the writer is the only person in Victoria that would appreciate a full-scale check on current prices.

Travel Diary

Another in a Series

By L. NORMAN SMITH

Associate Editor of The Ottawa Journal

NEW DELHI, India—A burning ghat holds no more horrors for me. We've always shuddered a bit on thinking of the way in which Hindus dispose of their dead bodies by laying them on a public bonfire. The act itself is not repelling. I went to one early this morning, though not early enough to catch the fires at their height. There is a cemetery-like area about a football field in size, fenced off. It adjoins the river. In the area there are quiet and pleasant lawns, well tended trees, and the inevitable cows.

Smith

Spaced about 20 yards apart are low cement platforms about 25 feet square, flat about two feet from the ground. On these are laid about 180 pounds of firewood, a pile perhaps four feet high, four or five feet wide and eight feet long. The body is brought to the cemetery in a walking procession of relatives and friends, the body is carried aloft on the men's shoulders and wrapped in a colored sheet. While prayers are said by a priest and friends, the body is placed on the wood and the fire is lit.

SMALL FIRE

In four hours the fire and body have burned away to a small pile of ashes. Relatives may come two days later when the cooled ashes have been sifted by attendants so that they may claim the few bones that are left. Not everyone claims bones. If not they are just placed in the river nearby (where cows bathe and buffalo lounge and men swim and women do their laundry.) If the bones have been claimed they may be taken to a garden or to a holy river or to a far-off part of the country where they had asked that their ashes be sprinkled. Some ashes are buried.

The burning costs a total of about $15, and since I know you will want to know I will add that there is no odor. The wood is very dry and burns wholly away and it is also sprinkled with a scent. The bodies are burned the day after death, sometimes the same day.

I must say that all in all the custom seems at least as dignified and sensible as ours and in some ways more so.

COUNTLESS RELIGIONS

From the burning ghat I went to the vast new Shri Lakshminarain Temple in Delhi built for Hindu worship and the almost countless religions Hinduism embraces—from Buddhism to Christianity and pausing along the way for worship of animals or stones. The Hindus believe there is only one God, but that he may be called various names. They imagine him without form, body or senses. He may be imagined as possessing human organs but this is only for some people more easily to concentrate their minds on him.

Thus God in Hinduism is indeed all things to all people. The intellectuals can reason him out to be what they want to believe. Those who don't want to reason but merely to live in deep faith may put their faith in whatever form they find it most acceptable to put God in. Those who have neither reason nor faith but want something other than themselves work out a sense and belief in Duty, duty to themselves or the state or civilization. Broadly speaking, all three types worship something and for a common term they call it God, and you will find in all three types (but each breaks down into 300 times three types) a conception of right and wrong, duty or failure, that is basically no different from those held in what we choose to call the more civilized countries.

Ups And Downs

By BRIAN A. TOBIN

"THEY claim," said the Elevator Man, "that the best way to learn about anything is to get an inside view. You don't just look at the front of a house, for example. You go around the back and check the plumbing and the foundations. You don't just take a man at his face value. You look into his heart and his lungs and his bank account. I guess the idea is okay in general. But I think I'd draw the line at this new way of sightseeing in Paris.

Tobin

Once a week, according to the news item, they stage a motorboat trip through the city's sewers. It seems that every street has a big sewer under it, and every street下水道 has its counterpart of pipes and outlets down below. The trip probably has a lot of atmosphere, but I think I'll stay topsides, thanks. Mind the step!

"Of course," said the Elevator Man, "there's different ways of knowing things, and sometimes they get twisted. You likely remember that story about the old fellow who was on the witness stand. 'Are you acquainted with any of the jurymen,' asked the opposing lawyer. 'More than half of 'em,' says the old chap. 'Are you willing to swear that you know more than half of them?' persists the counsel. The witness cast a dour eye over the men in the jury box. 'Shucks,' he says, 'if it comes to that, I'm willing to swear I know more than all of 'em put together.' Lower main!

"I guess," said the Elevator Man, "knowing the sewers of Paris is right if you know the rest as well. Trouble is, some people want to learn only about the sewers when they tackle a subject. They don't bother to find out about the better half above ground. The drains may be interesting and necessary, but staying too long amongst 'em may get you in a rut."

THE HOME GARDEN

By Any Other Name It's Still Grass Pest

By JACK G. BEASTALL

You may call it couch grass, quack grass, twitch grass or scutch grass, it is still a pest. Or you may use the botanical name, Agropyron repens, but even that will not control it.

Beastall also provide a crop, and it is a perennial.

Dig up a small couch grass plant which started from seed last July and examine the roots. You will find the new white rootstocks have already started on their journey for "fresh pastures," and some have succeeded in making six to eight inches of growth.

There are two or three recognized catch questions which jokers like to pull on a gardener, and one of them is how to eradicate couch grass. Many believe that it cannot be done, but it can. The worst thing you can do is to dig it into the soil.

INTO COMPOST HEAP

Where couch grass has grown undisturbed you will find that it is surface rooting, that is, within the top three inches of soil.

Pork Products Aid Digestion

Pancreatin, produced from sweetbread, will digest 25 times its own weight of proteins and starches. Pepsin, a similar product, is capable of digesting, for example, 3,000 times its own weight of egg-white.

These two products have now been incorporated into a pleasant-tasting indigestion tablet offered by an English company. Ayrtton's Heartshape Tablets are stocked by all drug stores in handy tins of 40 tablets, retailing at 50c. Advt.

When a fork is worked through to this depth, nearly all the roots can be lifted out. My method for a larger area is to plow the sod into strips, eight inches wide and three inches deep. By cutting these strips into twelve-inch lengths and stacking them, you have fine humus in a couple of years. I handled two lots in this manner and found it quite successful.

Once the rootstocks have been turned under, hand-picking is the only solution. Screening is useless because the rootstocks are so brittle, and every half-inch piece left in the soil will start a new plant. Many say that the roots must be burned as soon as they are collected. Mine go on the compost heap and are returned to the soil, as a black mould. If I have to put up with such a weed, it might as well be made useful.

VANCOUVER (CP)—A shipment of books is on its way to London, preliminary to the "Boilermakers' Union expedition to the Privy Council for the last round in its fight against Myron Kuzych.

Each book has 831 pages containing the proceedings of the 1949 trial in Supreme Court of the battling Ukrainian welder's suit for reinstatement in the union; and Mr. Justice Whitaker's judgment in his favor for $5,000 for lost wages and an order that his union card be restored.

There also are two booklets of exhibits accompanying each of the 75 appeal books printed by the union at a cost of around $3,500 for the use of their lordships of the Privy Council and lawyers when the case is heard.

Family Men In Princess Pats Bound For Korea War Front Complain Pay Too Low

By CAMERON JAMES

WAINWRIGHT, Alta. (CP)—Some of the men of the 2nd Battalion of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry are bound for Korea with a giant-sized complaint.

They are the men with families. They don't think they are being paid enough. What's more, their officers agree.

Lt.-Col. J. R. "Jim" Stone of Salmon Arm, B.C., the Patricia's commanding officer, says most of what trouble he has had with the men can be traced to insufficient pay.

Privates in the Special Force receive a minimum of $68 a month. If they are married their wives receive half of that—$34—plus $39 separation allowance and $30 marriage allowance, a total of $103.

But there is no additional allowance for children.

Pte. William Henderson, 25, a twice-wounded veteran of the Second World War who left a trucking business in Kensington, P.E.I., to join the Special Service Force, is an example.

"I keep $10 a month. My wife and three children get $127. It's tough to manage. We're lucky we live in a small place. I'd hate to think of my wife trying to get along in Toronto."

Said an officer in the pay corps: "It's too bad. But really the men who can't make a go on their pay have only themselves to blame. A man with a wife and three children had no business joining up."

Said Maj. George Flint of Montreal, a company commander: "The men weren't told what to expect when they joined up. They were hustled in fast and they thought their families would be properly looked after."

Mixed Reception For New Alberta Plan To License All Professions

CALGARY (CP)—Power to license professional men as doctors, lawyers and dentists in Alberta soon will be taken out of the hands of professional associations by the Alberta government.

The plan was announced here Saturday by Provincial Secretary C. E. Gerhart, whose department handles the issuance of other Alberta licenses.

In an interview, Mr. Gerhart said legislation to cover the scheme would be introduced at the next session of the Alberta Legislature, usually starting in February. It would be the first such legislation in Canada and would start operation early in 1951.

At present, such associations as the Law Society and Medical Association admit or reject members and license them to practice. Mr. Gerhart said the government's attitude was that it had delegated the licensing power to the associations and now would take it back.

"It would overcome the charge that professional societies are closed shops," he said. "We plan to open the doors for anyone to come here and practice if properly qualified."

Professionals who would be covered by the plan include doctors, lawyers, druggists, chartered accountants, nurses, chiropractors, naturopaths, chiropractors, engineers and veterinarians.

The associations could continue operations if desired, Mr. Gerhart said, but each member would pay a nominal license fee to the province. One license would last a lifetime.

Qualifications "equal to or better than" those required by the University of Alberta would be required.

In Ottawa, A. M. Laidlaw, secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Bar Association, said the association would not make any statement "one way or another."

Alberta lawyers, as individuals, generally showed opposition to the idea, while men in other professions thought it "might work" if proper precautions were taken.

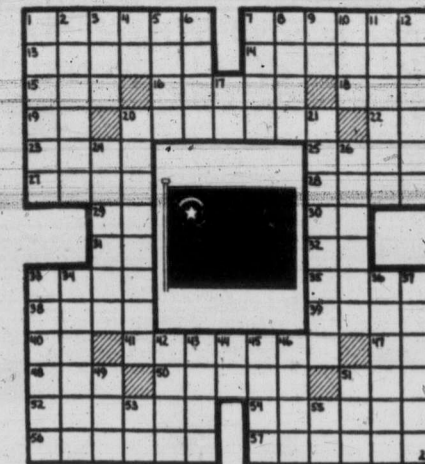

D. A. Lane, Calgary lawyer, termed the move "another step towards dictatorship."

Dr. A. Rooney, secretary of the Alberta Dental Association, said "As far as the dental profession goes, it doesn't make much difference whether we do the licensing or the province does it. We are interested mainly in maintaining the education standards for dental applicants."

Mrs. C. Van Dusen, assistant registrar for the Alberta Association of Registered Nurses, said registered nurses do not expect to be included in any new licensing act.

J. F. McDougall, registrar of the Association of Professional Engineers of Alberta, and H. W. Rogers, vice-president of the Alberta Pharmaceutical Association, both declined comment.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Consistently first-class bridge player, a matter of temperament as well as of theoretical skill. For example, one of the best players in the country goes to pieces if his partner makes even a trifling error. Since most partners make errors, this expert is a losing player!

West shuddered when his partner bid one no-trump. He expected to be doubled and set a few million points. He shuddered again when his partner doubled four hearts but relaxed when no redouble ensued.

West did not collapse at this point. He thought carefully about the opening lead. With short spades, he might have attacked that suit; but it didn't look very productive inasmuch as he held four to the ten. The "automatic" lead of the deuce of clubs also looked pretty sour.

He reasoned that his partner would have doubled one spade for a takeout if his hearts had been long as well as strong. Since East had actually bid one no-trump, his subsequent double of four hearts was surely based on general strength rather than trump strength. In that case, the soundest defense was to get dummy's trumps out in order to reduce the hand to no-trump. Hence West opened the deuce of hearts.

This was a magnificent beginning for the defense. If West had led a club, dummy would win and cash the top spades. Then the singleton diamond would be led from dummy. No matter what East might do, South would make his contract; and it would take a careful defense to prevent declarer from making an overtrick.

The trump opening gave the defenders a chance. East took the first trick with the ace of hearts and returned the jack of hearts and noted with misgivings the fact that now dummy had only one trump.

Declarer next entered dummy with a spade in order to return the singleton diamond. East decided that South must have several diamonds and that he couldn't ruff them all with dummy's one remaining trump. East therefore boldly and brilliantly played the nine of diamonds instead of grabbing his ace.

South won with the king of diamonds and ruffed a diamond in dummy. To get back to his hand he cashed the black ace and ruffed a spade. This left him with two trumps to East's one trump. But South still had three diamond tricks to East's ace and jack.

When South led a diamond to East's jack, East returned a club, punching out one of South's trumps. Then South had to give East another diamond, and East could lead another club, punching out South's last trump. Hence East was left with the last trump, which provided the setting trick.

U.S. Delegate Draws Boos, Laughter In Address To World Peace Congress

WARSAW (AP)—O. John Rogge, United States delegate, jolted the second World Peace Congress here Sunday with a rousing address in which he pleaded that the Communist-backed assemblage accept some ideas from the western world.

The former assistant U.S. attorney-general said there is widespread apprehension that the congress is becoming an instrument of Russian foreign policy.

Rogge—one of the new foreigners ever to be invited to speak before the Supreme Soviet (parliament) in the Kremlin—was roundly applauded there last March, though he placed part of the responsibility for the east-west cold war on the Soviet Union.

He was interrupted four times Sunday by boos, shouts and derisive laughter.

He charged that while Communists in many places talked loudly of peace, they have committed acts of aggression. There was a ripple of handclapping at the end of his 45-minute speech.

PRAISES SLAVS
The shouts of protest became loud when Rogge praised Yugoslavians for their independence of the Cominform. Yugoslavia was excluded from the Warsaw congress and Rogge said the banning of a delegation from that country was a grave error.

He said the world today had two troubling power concentrations—in the U.S. and in Russia. He had supported Yugoslavia "because it has refused to join either power bloc."

He said the Russian bloc was more troubling because "it is more complete" and "the Communists who support it have a missionary fervor" and "a dogmatic zeal which permits of no difference of opinion."

Booming rocked the hall when Rogge told the congress that Soviet power, backed up by Communist "religious fanaticism," is one thing that is wrong with the world.

50 FAINT IN MOVIE HOUSE

FORT SMITH, Ark. (CP)—More than 50 persons fainted or became ill in a crowded theatre here Sunday.

Fire Chief R. L. Rudd said an "automatic" control device in the ventilating system didn't function properly, resulting in an insufficient amount of oxygen in the air in the theatre. All those overcome were released after hospital treatment.

More Care Urged In Mail For Forces

A considerable quantity of mail for members of the Canadian Special Force is being received in the Canadian Base Post Office at Vancouver with the name of the addressee's unit left out of the address.

The Canadian Base Post Office depends upon the inclusion of the name of the unit to enable the mail to be sorted into the proper "unit" bag for despatch. Failure to include this important detail results in delay in delivery.

18-Man Rep Squad For McKechnie Cup

In the sweat-musty dressing-room at Windsor Park yesterday afternoon the elite guard of Victoria rugby was chosen to carry capital city colors into the McKechnie Cup series.

Of the 30 hopefuls who tore through a rugged 60-minute trial before a handful of shivering enthusiasts, the selection committee chose an 18-man rep team. As always, it was a difficult task, but manager Bruce McLean and coach Sid Gaunt expressed satisfaction with the result.

SIX-GAME SERIES

The classic McKechnie Cup competition is a round robin, home-and-home series which will see Victoria meet North Shore, Vancouver Lions, and U.B.C. Thunderbirds twice, once here and once in Vancouver.

First game will be in Victoria, Dec. 2. Defending champions are Varsity's Thunderbirds. Victoria lost possession of the McKechnie Cup in 1944 after an unprecedented six-year proprietorship. There is a high spirit of confidence among players and officials that 1950 will again be Victoria's year.

HEAVY WORKOUTS

To yesterday's, sidelines the optimism appeared justified. Rangy, chattering Keith MacDonald, just returned from his honeymoon, was an inspiration to his red-shirted trial team. Harry Turner injected the never-say-die note, and black-thatched Reg Galt galloped to a single-handed try in a moment of calculated opportunism guaranteed to give any opposition team the screaming meemies.

During the next two weeks, coach Sid Gaunt has set a heavy practice schedule for the reps. Sessions are called for 8 at MacDonald Park on Tuesday and Thursday nights of this week.

THE TEAM FOLLOWS:

BACKFIELD
Herb Alexander (J.B.A.A.); Harry Mark (Scottish); Bob Monaghan (College); Art Hicks (Scottish); Derek Hyde-Ley (Scottish); Lorne Prevost (Scottish); Hugh Burnett (College); Dennis Stead (College).

FORWARDS

ROYAL ROADS, OAK BAY IN GRID FINAL

Cadets Pound Vamps; Bays Edge Gobblins In Semis

Royal Roads will meet Oak Bay Gobblins next Saturday at Heywood Avenue Park in the sudden-death final for the Junior Canadian Football championship. This was decided over the week-end as the Cadets walloped Vampires 28 to 0 and Gobblins edged Whiteys 11 to 5 in the semifinals.

On Saturday, at Royal Roads, the vastly heavier Cadets had an easy time of it as their crushing ground attack coupled with a rock-like line overwhelmed the Vampires. The Vamps, unable to gain on the ground, took to the air in an unrewarded attempt to score.

The Gobblin-Whiteys game Sunday was extremely close all the way but the Bays staged a late spurt to gain entry into the final. Both clubs utilized a rugged bucking attack with the Bays having the advantage due to their heavier and harder charging line.

The Jewelers scored an unconverted major early in the first quarter, Binks Rafter plunging over from the five-yard line. The Bays promptly marched the length of the field and Ken Higgs bulled his way over centre from the two-yard strip.

Higgs also converted to give his squad a 6 to 5 lead. Jack Utting scored the clinching touchdown in the third quarter.

The final next Saturday should be a good battle inasmuch as the Bays are the only club in the league who can stack up with the undefeated Cadets as far as weight is concerned. Both clubs have strong lines and excellent running games. However, the Cadets may have the advantage in numbers and in the quality of coaching received.

Dunc Blames Pipes For Missed Putt

Duncan Sutherland, laird of Point Grey golf course, was a Victoria visitor Friday and cut up touches briefly with his old pal Don Gowan, of Uplands.

The popular Scot was wallowing to Gowan about the recent Old-versus-New Vets' tourney at Point Grey, when Sutherland missed a five-foot putt for a 69.

Pipers were at work on their internal machines nearby, and caught all the blame. "Twas the bletherin' o' the pipes that shook me wrists," rumbled Dunc. "Cost me twa shillings, the soundrels."

Ken Peterson was the big gun for Mac's Champs soccer club Saturday when they handed Esquimalt a 10 to 0 trimming at Bullen Park. Peterson netted six goals against a short-handed Esquimalt team.

To Lead Caps Against Fishermen

Mike Leachman's newly-christened Capitals will be looking for a first-place tie in the City Commercial Hockey League tonight when they tangle with the top-riding Fishermen's Co-op in the second game of the tripeheader. Expected to give the Fishermen's defence a tough time is the Capitals' top line of Ed LaRochelle, left, Les Bremner, centre, and Ron Bremner. However, due to a ruling by officials last week, LaRochelle and Les Bremner may not be on hand as if they return to the mainland after tonight's clash, they will be ruled ineligible. In the opener, Douglas Tire will lay its second-place position on the line as it takes on the Civil Service sextette. Gladwell Meteors and the Navy will close out the activity. First game starts at 7 at the Memorial Arena.

United Wins To Answer Critics

Victoria United, the city's much maligned entry in the Pacific Coast Soccer League, Saturday afternoon proved at least to themselves that they have what it takes to gain the league playoffs.

Exploding for four goals with the space of 20 minutes in the second half, United provided the answer to the caustic criticism of the fans for their recent performances by humbling Vancouver City, 4 to 2.

The bitterly cold weather probably had something to do with it, but the game was hardly under way when the grandstand jockeys jumped on United. They singled out Den McGee in particular and gave the youngster a rough ride. The remainder of the club got their too, but it was McGee the crowd was after and he really took a beating.

But Denny apparently has weathered worse storms. He took all the abuse leveled his way; played his heart out in a gritty performance and was still going from Cedric Robb and beat McPherson easily.

Three minutes later Robb set up the second goal. He took advantage of slow-moving Vancouver defence to feed to Spry following another corner. Spry in turn passed to Milligan who made no mistake.

Jack Robbins then planted a penalty kick into the rigging to make it 3 to 0 and Walker completed the scoring outburst on a double relay from McGee and Milligan, the latter tricking the defence to leave Walker wide open in front of the goal.

City came back in the later moments of the game and Bob Lewis and portly Bill Thomas beat Joe Travis with low shots on which Travis had no possible chance to save.

PLAYERS HONORED
During the half-time intermission Red McMillan and Bill McAllister were presented with their Dominion Football championship medals by Pat Mulcahy, Vancouver Island Soccer Commissioner. McMillan and McAllister were members of the city team last summer.

Culmone Tied With Shoemaker

NEW YORK (AP)—Making it 10 winners in four days with a double at Bowie Saturday, jockey Joe Culmone tied Willie Shoemaker for the lead in their battle for national riding honors. Each now has ridden 331 winners. Shoemaker had one winner at Hollywood.

Shoemaker's winner was Amarillo Kid ($10.80). Culmone booted home Tampere ($9.00) and Inseparable ($5.00).

Clarkson Vic West Star In McGavin Cup Victory

A solid crowd of rabid supporters saw Victoria West take the measure of Esquimalt 4 to 1 in the McGavin Cup soccer finals at Athletic Park Sunday.

The game kept the fans on their feet through much of the play. Only poor finishing around the net and bad breaks on some good chances kept Esquimalt from reversing the scoring order right up to the final whistle.

A corner kick by West's Bernie Clarkson at the 10-minute mark was the tip-off on "Lady Luck's" favor. In trying to clear, Alf Jenkins of Esquimalt headed the ball into the net for the first score against his team.

Five minutes later Bill Walker climaxed a pretty passing attack with the tying goal.

Both teams fought hard the remainder of the half. Bill Turner beating the whistle by a few minutes with a clean goal for Wests, making the half-time score 2 to 1.

CLARKSON SCORES TWICE

The second half saw Wests continue with the best of the play. Smart combination paid off after 20 minutes when Clarkson scored with a bullet-like shot. He came back three minutes later to repeat, putting Vic West ahead 4 to 1, which proved to be the final tally.

At the close of the game Robert Jackson presented the McGavin trophy to Vic West captain Ronny Bland and congratulated the teams on their spirit and sportsmanship.

League officials were pleased at the support given by the fans, both to the game and to the injured players' fund.

BRITANNIA TAKE OAK BAY

In the first game of the second half of the Victoria and District League scheduled Saturday, Britannias nipped Oak Bay,

SOLDIERS FORCE TIE

College Winning Streak Goes With Campbell's Lost Trousers

Even the sacrifice of John Campbell's shorts couldn't give Victoria College a win over Canadian Scottish in Saturday's rugby at Macdonald Park. John's shorts and a six-point College lead went glimmering as the surging Army rolled to an 11 to 11 tie.

The red-faced school ace got quick coverage from his mates in a retreat to the dressing room, but the tie game went into the books as the first of the rugby league season and gave a definite lift to the morale of the green-shirted Scots.

Slim, ghostly Bhagat Basi weaved and dribbled his way to the first try for College. The fleet forward slipped a perfect pass to Hughie Burnett who made it pay off in the first five minutes of the game. Shipley missed the conversion, but redeemed himself quickly with a beautifully-placed penalty kick which put College five points up. Army came back just before the half when Lorne Prevost scored on a pass from Mills and Hicks converted, but the tie score was short-lived. Campbell, not yet deprived of his pants, galloped 45 yards for the Vikings second try. The half ended with Army on the short end of the 8 to 5 score.

SALMON SNOOTS SNIFFERS

Referee, Doug Willard had hardly called time on the rest period when Bobby Monaghan was off on one of the most spectacular runs of the match. He shook half the Army like flies and, scored as he was pulled down heavily by Mills. Shipley missed the conversion by inches but the 11-to-5 lead looked big for College.

Among the unimpressed were veteran Phil Salmon and Coach Campbell Forbes of the Scots, both pressed into strip by the Army manpower shortage. The counter attack floored fans who had hooted at Salmon's appearance on the field. Jimmy Mills opened it with a lightning-like 35-yard sprint to a try that left College flat-footed and cut the School lead in half. An unexpected and disconcerting feat came when a flying tackle left Campbell without his trousers. Although the damage was soon repaired Phil Salmon seemed inspired by the success of this manoeuvre, and he took personal charge of the ball as Army drove up the field.

The tying score got a big hand for Salmon and Army. The single point for the game leaves College with the league leadership but lifts Scottish out of the basement they had been sharing with Normal.

Say 'Limited Wars' Aim Of Russians

Former Soviet Army Officers Claim Reds Must Recoup Prestige

By LEON DENNEN

PARIS (NEA)—Two high-ranking Soviet Army officers have taken refuge in the West since the outbreak of war in Korea and are giving authorities a highly-interesting size-up of Russian plans for the future.

They assert that the Russians will attempt to save face and recoup prestige lost in Korea by launching several "limited wars."

Aim of these wars would be to sap the strength of the West and train the Cominform's military fifth column under actual war conditions.

They said Iran and Yugoslavia had top places on Moscow's schedule of limited aggression. For several months Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky, the Stalin-appointed dictator of Poland, has been engaged in formation of four Polish motorized divisions slated to be shipped to the Soviet-Iranian border.

Stalin does not trust the Poles. These divisions are unlikely, therefore, to be employed in western Europe.

The officers said the current Russian peace offensive, first forecast by this reporter in early September and now in full flower at the United Nations General Assembly, was a screen for these prospective aggressions.

"Heads are again rolling in Moscow, they said, adding that the purpose of 'unreliable elements' has reached top officers in the Red Army command and may even extend into the Politburo itself.

The presumption is that the two officers fled to escape such a purge. I must withhold any identification for security reasons.

SHOCK TROOPS IN ACTION

The officers told western officials that in the event of a general war the Russian army would strike across Europe in a lightning invasion.

This invasion would signal the uprising of the Cominform's secret military commando detachments or shock troops which are being trained in most of the countries of western Europe, especially in southern France and northern Italy.

The Russians were firm in their belief that Moscow is not yet ready for world conflict.

This would seem to tie in with reports that Moscow is having increasing difficulty with satellite countries including Mao-tse-Tung's China.

Although the Russo-Chinese treaty was signed last February, Moscow has not yet delivered the promised grain and other food supplies to relieve the famine in Central China. The Russians have thus far turned a deaf ear to Mao's urgent pleas for help. They blame inadequate transport facilities for failure to keep their part of the agreement.

There has also been considerable Russian-Chinese friction over the return of the dismantled industrial plant of Manchuria. Following the war, much of Manchuria's industrial equipment was carried away by the Russians as "war booty."

Nine months after Mao tse-Tung's triumphal visit to Moscow the Russians are still bargaining with the Chinese over every piece of machinery they are requested to restore.

TRANSPORTATION HEADACHE

Manchuria is China's industrial base. Without it no serious effort can be made to develop Chinese resources.

Russia's greatest military bottleneck, the Red officers reported, is transportation. Even though the heavy industries of Czechoslovakia, Hungary and other satellite countries have been mobilized in the effort to improve Soviet transport facilities they remain as yet inadequate for major war operations.

The Soviet Politburo, it is becoming increasingly evident, anticipated a quick and easy victory in Korea. This would have secured Soviet influence in Manchuria and what is even more important—in Red China, which the Russians apparently do not trust too much.

Shrunk Head War Souvenir

WINNIPEG (BUP)—Many a war souvenir adorns the home of Canadians who fought in both world wars, but few can match one picked up by E. A. Hilton of Winnipeg.

Hilton, a leading signalman with the Royal Canadian Navy in the Second World War, has an aborigine South American war rior's head among his prized possessions.

The head is about one-fifth its normal size and the lips are sewn crudely, but tightly together. It's not known how the head was removed from the gallery of heads in the tribal dwelling place, but somehow it came into the possession of a German sailor sightseeing in Peru during the last war.

The sailor took the head aboard a cargo ship—the Hamburg-American Line's Her Montis, captured by the Canadian armed merchant cruiser Prince Henry in 1941. The vessel was burning badly when the Canadian sailors boarded her and attempted salvage.

Hilton was one of the tars to go aboard, where he found the head, impaled on the end of a long stick.

Hilton says the head, perfectly formed, is about four inches high and two inches thick. The black skin is unwrinkled and the black hair hangs 15 inches from the scalp. On a rainy day, if taken outside, it curls just like a permanent.

It's still a mystery how South American tribesmen shrink heads without disfiguring them.

Geigers Used Tracing Down Mosquitoes

OTTAWA (CP)—Chasing mosquitoes with geiger counters is the latest job of scientists in Canada's northland.

Radioactive insects are being used as an aid to mosquito control around military outposts in the north.

The army says the new wrinkle is being applied in a combined operation of the defence research board, the department of agriculture and the United States army's chemical division.

The mosquitoes are activated so scientists can find out how far they fly from their breeding grounds. The breeding grounds are made radioactive and then when mosquitoes are captured they can be identified as from a particular area. This provides their flying range.

First experiments were made in northern Quebec. More recently 3,000,000 radioactive mosquitoes were turned loose around Churchill.

SOUTH AFRICA FIGHTS LOCUSTS

SMOKE SO BAD CANARY COUGHS

LONDON (CP)—A tenant in a new housing development says the smoke is so bad he has to give his canary cough mixture every night.

The complaint was among those submitted by 60 tenants of an apartment block on London's Edgware Road. They said they are smoked out nightly because of faulty fireplaces.

H. C. Hampton, Marylebone district housing director, promised experiments would be undertaken to get rid of the trouble.

Scots Quaff Danish; Canada Gets Scotch

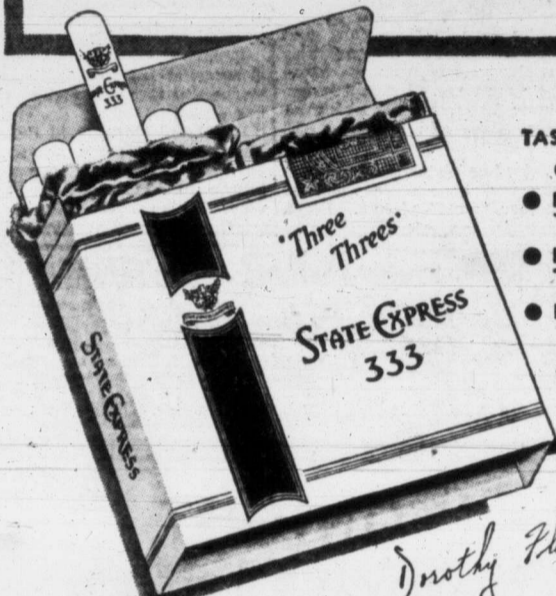

LONDON (CP)—Britain is importing Danish whisky while Scotland sends the real stuff to Canada and the United States.

The imported liquor goes principally to Scotland, where it sells for 37s 6d ($5.30) a bottle.

Stoical Scots, slightly baffled by this state of affairs, reluctantly admit that even Danish whisky is better than none at all.

'No More Tragedy For A While,' Pleads Oscar Winner

By ERSKINE JOHNSON

HOLLYWOOD (NEA)—Exclusive Yours: Jane Wyman has informed her bosses at Warners that she wants to skip the movie tragedy business for the next few years. That's the reason she nixed the co-starring role opposite Kirk Douglas in "The Travelers" to be Bing Crosby's partner in "Here Comes the Groom."

Business is "better-than-ever" note: Sam Levin, the San Francisco theatre tycoon, built a 2500-seat theatre, then installed only 1200 seats to insure more leg room. Beams-Sam: "It's so comfortable you can sleep in any seat. The house is always packed no matter what picture I'm playing."

Bill Morrow—he writes Crosby's air show—and Pat Dane, ex-wife of Tommy Dorsey, deny those secret marriage rumors. Current object of Pinks Tomlin's affections is a job as a Hollywood publicity man. Ava Gardner and her sister, who quarreled several months ago over Ava's refusal to say "So Long" to Frank Sinatra, have decided that blood is thicker than water. They're together again. Where there's Hope there's motion dept.:

Bob returned from Korea for two added scenes in Bob Welch's "Lemon Drop Kid," hops to New York for another TV show, then plays one-nighters until his next Paramount movie.

Paramount and Van Heflin are huddling about the lead in "Night Man." Ginger Rogers and Greg Bautzer, the grapevine insists, will be married before the end of the year—probably after she completes added scenes for "The Groom Wore Spurs."

McCarthy, Snerd, Bergen To Desert Radio For TV

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—This will be Charlie McCarthy's last season on the radio. Mortimer Snerd's, too.

Their voice, ventriloquist Edgar Bergen, says "We'll probably give up radio next year and devote full time to television." Bergen has made two television shows, which will be released for Thanksgiving and Christmas. They have been filmed in Hollywood and he added, "I guess I'm one of the few believers in film." Nearly all other comedy stars have gone to New York to perform their shows in the flesh.

Two Dukowski Protegees In 'Icecycles' Troupe

Arrival of the cast of "Ice Cycles of 1951" in Victoria Dec. 1, will mean a happy reunion to Joe Dukowski, manager of the Memorial Arena. Jane Tinsdale and Ann Puckall are former proteges of Dukowski's.

Regina, Canada, is the hometown of both girls. Joe Dukowski, as manager of the Regina Ice Arena, gave them their first lessons in skating. When the girls showed promise, Mr. Dukowski suggested they try out for show skating and personally supervised their further training.

Last year when auditions were held in Regina by "Ice Cycles" both girls entered and were chosen to go with the show immediately. Ann and Jane are now seasoned veterans of the precision trained "Ice Cycles," and are looking forward to the day they can qualify for featured roles in the show.

Since most "Ice Cycles" stars are chosen from the "line," it is quite possible that Mr. Dukowski will see his "skating kids," as he calls them, go on to stardom.

Margaret Fields, Yvonne Brothers, Willie Kall and Shirley Winters, all of them feature performers, are former audition "babies."

Auditions for "Ice Cycles" are held in each city in which the show plays. Local skaters may apply to the Memorial Arena for dates of the Victoria auditions.

"Ever(s)" Flying

—By Maurice Humber.

NOW... what do they mean, Dutch Evers is dead, & no more we'll see, his balding head? Why... we've only our minds & eyes to splice, to see him flying... over the ice. Just as I did, on Friday last, in that minute of silence... standing fast. An opponent had slammed him into the boards, they were mixing it, crossing swords. "Dutch" was tossed, the other more weight, & then he was slammed against the gate. He nimbly scrambled to his feet, to smile to a spectator in his seat. "That guy is heavy, he shouldn't do that. I'll go worry off him, some more of his fat." And away he flew, a terrific clip, to bounce against some other hip. To go sprawling again, all over the place, then to quickly come up with a smile on his face. Then off again in spins & reels, like a terrier barking at someone's heels. Then to get the rubber against his stick, the problem of weight he had to lick. The other defence was crouching there, so "Dutch" just leaped high in the air. Flying right over this stalwart defence, as a greyhound sailing over a fence. Right round the goal he disc was poured, but NO SHOUT went up as "The Dutchman" scored. Because that crowd, packed & tense, were deepened there in reverence. But these were their thoughts, of that I'm sure, & memory's a thing that will always endure. A God-given quality we all possess, for this game of life, to lighten & bless. The whistle shrilled, our thoughts it severs, the 7th forward... is "Dutchy Evers." The crowd settles for their moment's sighing, as "Dutch" lives on... EVER(S) FLYING.

Movie Studios Scramble To Lure Women Back Into Matinee Habit

By VIRGINIA McPHERSON
HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Film studios are scrambling frantically to lure housewives back into the matinee habit, but they'll never do it with the Clark Gables and the Tyrone Powers, one producer said today.

"Women go to the movies to see actresses," Bill Dozier explained. "The only way we'll get the housewives back is to make more women pictures."

Dozier thinks Hollywood lost the lady audience when it started bombarding 'em with realistic movies.

Instead of drawing the girls into the movie houses, those stories of racial prejudice and war drove 'em to canasta games and literary teas.

"Women like to watch other women," Dozier says. "They want to compare figures and clothes and hair-dos and manners."

"They like to watch Joan Crawford and try to figure out what she's got that she can get Gable while they're married to."

Producers who're trying to get back this "lost audience" with movies full of men are on the wrong track, Dozier says.

"We'll always have the romantic appeal," he admitted. "But we need more stories about women. And they have to be set in a luxurious atmosphere.

"We have to give housewives a slice of life they like to dream about. It transports them from their grimy chores to another world."

"And for a little while, they're up there wearing all those gorgeous clothes and riding around in those limousines and meeting all those fascinating men."

This is the idea behind Dozier's new Columbia movie, "Harriet Craig." Joan Crawford wears gobs of gorgeous duds and ambles into adventures guaranteed to give almost any housewife a good cry.

"Crawford's the kind of box-office lure we need now," Dozier said. "Also Bette Davis and Olivia de Havilland and Lana Turner."

These beauties are the best bait Dozier can think of to attract women who have nothing better to do of an afternoon than take in a movie.

"Of course, I'm ag'in women not having anything better than that to do," he grinned. "But for those who don't... well... we might as well get 'em in off the streets."

OBEY THAT IMPULSE

Go Ahead—Punch Him, Psychiatrist Says

SEATTLE (AP)—Got a back ache?

A University of Washington psychiatrist says there are several things you can do about it.

The next time you get mad at somebody, go ahead—punch him in the nose.

Or you could take up painting pictures, or playing the piano.

Dr. Thomas H. Holmes reports a two-year study of a large group of patients that a back ache isn't necessarily the result of heavy work. In many cases it is caused by pent-up anger, frustration, resentment or guilt.

Take anger, for instance. When you get mad, your muscles respond by becoming tense. They're ready to back you up on that punch. But being civilized, you control the impulse to take direct action.

Because the back is already under the stress of maintaining posture and movement, the pain usually localizes in that area.

When the muscle pain reaction occurs from other emotions, Dr. Holmes recommends hobbies or mild exercises to help you relax.

Video Sets Popular With Canadians

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadians, still without television service of their own, are buying a large number of television receiving sets.

A Bureau of Statistics report today showed that 10,951 sets—10,850 of them in Ontario—were sold in the first eight months of this year. The remainder were sold in British Columbia and Quebec.

Ottawa 'King's Barber' Quits

Among the possessions of Paul E. Tasse are autographed photographs of two prime ministers—Mackenzie King and Bennett—given to him during their periods of power. Both of the late statesmen went to him for haircuts—and sometimes advice.

Ottawa's Paul Tasse Was Prime Ministers' Friend

OTTAWA (CP) — Paul E. Tasse, known as the King's barber and the confidante of prime ministers, has retired.

The 65-year-old barber in Ottawa's swank Chateau Laurier Hotel has given up his No. 1 chair for the quiet life of pensioner. Now he likes to reminisce.

He earned the title of the King's barber while serving on the train that carried King George and Queen Elizabeth during their visit to Canada in 1939.

But of all his accomplishments, he is proudest of the way he got along equally well with two of Canada's prime ministers.

Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Liberal prime minister for more than 20 years, and Viscount Bennett, Conservative

Heart Surgery Success For 11-Weeks Baby

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The case of the youngest child ever to undergo successful surgery for a usually fatal heart condition in infants was reported here.

Dr. Chester P. Lynxwiler of St. Louis University school of medicine said an 11-week-old girl is ready for discharge from St. Mary's Hospital here a week after the operation.

The primary condition involved was coarctation, or virtual blockage of the main heart artery—complicated by a growing failure of blood-pumping vessels within the child's tiny heart. The blockage is a congenital condition in some infants—that is, they develop it while still in the mother's womb. Its cause is unknown.

Dr. Lynxwiler said the majority of infants having such a blockage do not develop the complication of heart failure, and reach early childhood without ill effect.

But of those who develop the complication in the first half year of life, he said, about 90 per cent die within the year.

Ballet Dancers At Montreal Festival

MONTREAL (CP)—Canadian ballet dancers from most major centres between Halifax and Victoria are scheduled to arrive here this week to take part in the Third Canadian Ballet Festival to be held Nov. 20-25.

This is the first large-scale Canadian ballet festival staged with 15 companies participating in the event. Seven of the companies are travelling from such points as Vancouver, Winnipeg, Halifax, Toronto and Ottawa with their own costumes and scenery.

ONE MUST SPEAK RUSSIAN TO ENJOY LIFE, SAY REDS

VIENNA (AP)—If you don't speak Russian you're not really living.

That's what Romanians are being told. The Communist newspapers of that Iron Curtain country are bombarding their readers with articles explaining the absolute necessity of learning Russian.

Only then, they are told, can they "penetrate the entire depth and logic of Lenin's ideals, and the clarity and concision of Stalin's writings."

The newspaper Scanteia Tineretului says, "One cannot conceive of an honest, peace-loving man, or a real lover of culture and science in the service of mankind, who does not strive to master the Russian language."

SARNAK CHARGES THE BLOOD WITH PAIN-RELIEVING MEDICATION AND EFFECTS THE STOMACH, LIVER, KIDNEYS AND BOWELS

Do You Suffer From One of These Conditions?

Rheumatic, Arthritic, Neuritic Pains; Sciatica, Lumbago, Backache.

Occasional Upsets of The Stomach, Kidneys and Liver; Bloat, Heartburn, Indigestion.

Getting Up Nights, Lack of Energy and Vitality, Bilious Dizzy Spells, Nutritional Anemia, Nervousness, Poor Appetite, Sleeplessness.

B. H. QUARRELL, Discoverer of Sarnak

WINNIPEG

Mrs. R. Neal of 779 Furby Street, Winnipeg, Manitoba, writes: "For two years I have suffered with sciatica in my shoulder and arm. I have tried several remedies during this time but have had no results. When Sarnak was introduced to me, I decided to try it and after one bottle, I experienced wonderful results. The stabbing pain in my shoulder and arm was relieved, my nerves seemed to become more settled and I was able to get a good night's sleep. I have found Sarnak to be so effective that I wouldn't want to be without such a reliable remedy."

EDMONTON

Mrs. E. J. Martin of 10650 - 98th Street, Edmonton, Alberta, writes: "For quite some time I have been suffering with nervousness and indigestion and have not been able to get relief. After taking only two bottles of your medicine, Sarnak, I can truthfully say that it is the most beneficial medicine I have ever taken. It certainly made me feel better and I cannot express in words the appreciation I have for what Sarnak has been able to do for me."

CALGARY

Mr. V. Collette of 1928 Westmount Road, Calgary, Alberta, writes: "Stomach upset, nervousness and constipation have caused me a great deal of trouble during the past two years. Just recently I tried your medicine, Sarnak, and within two weeks I got relief. I am very pleased with the results since taking Sarnak and might add that my wife has also benefited from this medicine."

SASKATOON

Mrs. W. M. Beasley, 1548 Avenue A, Saskatoon, Saskatchewan, writes: "I suffered for years with pain around my left eye and left side. At times this pain felt like a cord tying me tightly. I was told at different times it was arthritic pain, sciatica, a cold and several other conditions. At times the pain was almost unbearable. After reading of the success other people had had with Sarnak, I started using it and almost from the very first the pain was eased and I was able to get about more comfortably. I intend to take Sarnak a little while longer to make sure I am better."

KELOWNA

Mrs. Alice Fawcett of Kelowna, B.C., writes: "Ever since I can remember, I have suffered with a kidney condition that caused me to get up once or twice every night. I also suffered with a backache and arthritic pains. I have tried many medicines but none seemed to help me. A short time ago I started taking Sarnak and after one bottle, I noticed a great improvement and feel so much better. It's a relief to have found a remedy that has helped me in so many ways and I highly praise Sarnak to all my friends."

WINNIPEG

Mrs. J. B. Ziola of 681 Magnus Avenue, Winnipeg, Manitoba, writes: "I suffered with severe backache on and off for five years and although I tried, in various ways, to get relief, nothing I did helped me. After taking Sarnak for only two weeks I got relief from my aggravating pain. Now I am getting around doing most of my housework as well as I feel so much better. I am going to continue using Sarnak and think that anyone else who suffers as I have should try this fine medicine."

The experience of the people above may be yours. If you suffer, start taking Sarnak today.

SARNAK CHARGES THE BLOOD with pain-relieving medication and effects the Stomach, Liver, Kidneys and Bowels. SARNAK HAS BENEFITED THOUSANDS OF PEOPLE AND IS RECOMMENDED FOR Rheumatic, Arthritic and Neuritic Pains, Sciatica, Lumbago, Backache, Occasional upsets of the Stomach,

Detection Drives Boon To Diabetes Sufferers

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

For the third successive year the American Diabetes Association, with the co-operation of physicians and local groups in many different communities, is conducting a diabetes detection drive.

This is an important public health measure. Diabetes is a serious disease, especially if allowed to go untreated for too long. Moreover it is common, for something like a million persons in the United States alone are under treatment.

But the main reason for the detection drive is that only about half of those who have the disease are aware of their condition.

Last year, for example, four-fifths of the people in Virginia, Minn., were tested and 50 were found who did not know they had diabetes. Here, then, are 50 people who have a much better chance for life and health than they did before.

Of course it is not enough just to know that one has diabetes. The proper steps must be taken to treat it. Fortunately better methods of doing this are available today than in the past. In mild cases attention to diet alone may serve to control the disease. In more severe ones insulin is often desirable in addition to a careful diet.

The use of insulin has also been improved. More is known about how much to give and how often. Also there are now available several kinds of insulin such as the slow acting ones which need be taken by some patients only once a day.

SELF TREATMENT UNWISE

The main aim of treatment is to prevent the loss of sugar in the urine. If this is done most of the symptoms and complications can be brought under control. The patient should not try to do this himself since it will result in many failures.

Also the victim must realize that he or she cannot expect good results unless the diet and other directions prescribed are actually followed. There are many tragic deaths and complications which occur because of a patient's carelessness in following his physician's directions.

What's Your Opinion?

By IRVING STRICKLAND AND DAVE STOCK

Vancouver voters in December will be asked in a plebiscite to say whether or not they would favor "wide open" Sundays.

Do you think it would be a good idea if people in Victoria were given a chance to vote on the same question?

Martin W. Fraser, chief clerk at Clubb's Tobacconist, 2341 Howard Street.

"No, absolutely no. We don't open Sunday in this store. Why try and force us to open up? Once you have the stores open, you know, the beer parlors and everything else will open too. Personally, I've no desire to work on Sunday. Some people have to work but that can't be helped. Will you read back what you've written there?"

Mrs. Barbara MacSweeney, sales lady at Eaton's, 1351 Merritt Street.

"Certainly. I come from England and think this town's way-behind. In London there are shows on Sunday, dancing, skating—everything. Even the pubs are allowed to open two hours in the mornings and three hours in the afternoons. I don't think shows are against religion. They are a form of relaxation. They were open Sunday, they would probably keep a lot of these juveniles out of mischief. I don't think you'll ever get the majority of Victorians to think that way, though."

Ross "Bud" Hocking of Hocking & Forbes Sporting Goods, 2559 Orchard Avenue.

"I definitely think they should be entitled to vote and express an opinion on that. And I think it's up to all of us to go along with the majority if it's within reasonable bounds. I don't know how such a vote would go. But that's just a snap judgment. You'll have to excuse me. I've got eight things on my mind at once."

Miss Rosalind Wilkinson, clerk at B.C. Electric, 1275 Tattersall Drive.

"Yes, I do. People should certainly have an opportunity to vote on that special point. It is something that has been discussed for a long time. I am inclined to think it would be a good thing to have shows open and sports events to go to. I've played badminton on Sunday but most people haven't anything to do. A lot of people just go driving and waste a lot of gas."

Reginald Burton, manager, Gore Blue Print Company, 111 View Royal Avenue.

"I haven't given it much thought but I would say a vote should be put to the people on it. There's football now, of course, and I don't think I'd be in favor of professional sports on Sunday. And I don't think I'd be in favor of shows. But then, some people would argue there's not much difference between going to a snow and going to play golf. Maybe the younger generation has a different view on this."

Miss Madeleine Apperson, stenographer-receptionist, B.C. Public Utilities Commission, 1125 Fort Street.

"Oh, that's controversial isn't it? Well, I'd say yes. I think it would be a wonderful thing if people could go to shows or baseball games on Sunday. It would give the people more to do than just going to church or spending a quiet afternoon at home. Having the shows open is a nice idea. Anybody who didn't want to go wouldn't have to, would they?"

Copies Of Times For Sailors In Far East

Anxious to do its bit to keep men aboard the Canadian destroyers in Far East up to date with happenings at home, the Victoria Daily Times sends three complimentary bundles of newspapers daily to the Fleet Mail Office at Esquimalt for air-lift dispatch to the ships. Above, left to right, are chief dispatcher N. Bouvour, E. Parkins and Nancy Dee of the Times circulation department. Mr. Bouvour was anxious that friends and relatives remember Saturday is deadline for Christmas mail for three destroyers. Parcels for air mail should be less than 6½ pounds.

IN COURT

VICTORIA

Samuel O'Neill, 642 Head Street, was remanded to Thursday for judgment on a charge of careless driving.

Roy Johnson and William I. L. Todd, charged separately with theft of bicycles worth over $25, were remanded for sentence.

Found guilty of failing to stop and pull over on the sounding of an emergency siren, Amier All Dren, 1296 Toulmie Avenue, was fined $15.

Frank Guiney, young Victoria man, was sentenced to a term in Borstal school. This was for five offences of obtaining money by false pretences.

Walter A. Phillips, 1254 Reynolds Road, pleaded not guilty to a charge of careless driving. He was remanded to Nov. 23 for trial.

SAANICH

Alvin Percy Miller, no given address but believed by police to be living at 51 Gorge Road, was fined $30. He pleaded guilty to a charge of assaulting and injuring Constable Robert Adrian at 2:30 this morning. He struck the constable between the eyes, injuring both, on being caught after a chase.

Only Three Candidates For Saanich Election

To date only three individuals have come forward as candidates for the Saanich Municipal election Dec. 16.

They are Councillor Frank S. Green, insurance agent, of 3480 Mayfair Drive; Councillor E. P. Cummins, contractor, of North Road, Colquitz; and Chad Smith, 1213 Maywood Avenue, war pensioner and newcomer to municipal politics.

Councillors Green and Cummins are completing one-year terms, and will seek election to the council for two years.

There are three seats vacant on the council. It was decided last year to reduce the council from eight to seven seats, thus leaving two vacant in 1951.

PICKLES RESIGNS

However, with the recent announcement by Councillor Sydney Pickles of his resignation, the third seat will become vacant.

Councillor Pickles resides in the Ward Six area, which is seceding from the municipality, and would automatically lose his place with secession proceedings completed.

In a similar position is Councillor W. H. Kersey, who also resides in the Ward Six area. He is expected to remain on the council until secession becomes a fact.

Council members with one year yet to serve are Reeve Joseph W. Casey, and Councillors Kersey, George Austin and L. H. Passmore.

Councillor John G. Ryan, now completing a one-year term, has stated definitely that he will not seek re-election.

Mayhew Cancels Plans To Attend Ceremony

Fisheries Minister R. M. Mayhew will be unable to attend the inauguration ceremony Friday of the Pacific weather ship service here.

Mr. Mayhew had intended to fly to Victoria with Transport Minister Lionel Chevrier who is officiating at the ceremony, but pressure of duties at Ottawa forced cancellation of his plans.

Vote List Puzzle Caused By Deaths

Revision Court Not Satisfied With 'Hit And Miss' Method In Use

Dead men's names on the city voters' list have posed a problem down through the years.

At a sitting of the Court of Revision on the 1950 list at City Hall today, members agreed to apply to the British Columbia government, statistical branch, to supply a list of names of deceased in the Greater Victoria area.

ASK WARDENS TO HUNT HAWK

Game wardens are to be asked to attend in the 1000 block of Fort Street to shoot a hawk which Mrs. E. E. Hodgson, 1051 Fort, claims "is killing all the birds."

She said the hawk had been there for several weeks preying on smaller birds.

Rally To Fight Auto Court Within City

Officers of the Victoria and Vicinity Auto Courts Association intend to offer opposition at City Council Tuesday rezoning waterfront property on the south side of Gorge Road, between Albany and Carrol, as an auto court site.

Stan Morrow, president of the operators' association, points out that in 1947 the council laid down the principle that in future, no auto courts should be allowed inside the city limits.

Because of that ruling, Mr. Morrow declared, at least seven persons in the last three years have been refused permission to build courts in the city and have, consequently, invested thousands of dollars, building auto courts outside city limits, along the island highway.

The application before Council is for auto court of considerable size at 141 Gorge Road.

"It would break every little operator from the city limits to Colwood," says Mr. Morrow.

New Park For B.C.

Provincial cabinet has approved an order-in-council setting aside 64 acres of property fronting on Takysie Lake, about four miles south of Grassy Plains, B.C., as a park.

SAILORS' VIEWS CLASH ON HAMMOCKS AND BUNKS

Bunks versus hammocks is the current debate aboard the Canadian destroyers in the Far East.

En route to Japan from Hongkong the three ships were buffeted by a severe storm. Only one, the Sioux, has bunks. They were installed in her modernization at Esquimalt a year ago.

AB. Bill Lord of Taber, Alta., held that the hammock was better as a sleeping sack. The ship, he said, could revolve right around but the hammock and its occupant would stay in the same place.

LS. Jerry Livingstone of New Westminster said hammocks were too much bother in stowage every day and you did not have to be an acrobat to get into a bunk.

Six Making Bids For Three Seats In Esquimalt

There are six sure starters so far lined up for the December race for election to Esquimalt Municipal Council. Three seats are at stake.

Councillors A. C. Wurtelle and John Carey will seek re-election. Running with them will be Mrs. Annie McVie, Walter Holder, William Stephenson and James Bryant.

Mrs. McVie, housewife, 922 Lyann Street; Mr. Holder, painting contractor, 1011 Colville Road, were unsuccessful candidates in last year's municipal election.

Mr. Bryant, a machinist-fitter at H.M.C. Dockyard, 883 Wolston Street, will be making his first try for public office this year.

A possible seventh candidate is Charles Smith, retired, 531 Joffre Street. Mr. Smith is a former councillor. He was defeated in a bid for re-election last year.

R. H. "Dick" Reeve, insurance salesman, 1023 Woolaston Street, has signified his intention to run again as Esquimalt's representative on the Greater Victoria School Board.

As yet, no candidate has come forth to fill the single vacancy that will be open on the Esquimalt police commission.

ATTEMPT ENTRY

Police today said an unsuccessful attempt was made to get into Suite 8 of the Field Apartments, Field Street during the night. A ladder had been placed against the wall to get to the windows of the suite but no entry was made. Suite is occupied by Miss V. L. O'venden.

COAT STOLEN

R. Kramer, Lincoln Hotel, reported to police that a topcoat was stolen from the room occupied by Mrs. N. Nelson, Sunday night.

Dishes Will Really Bounce In New Rubber Dishpans!

By PENNY SAVER

Next time someone in the family pops up with the bright suggestion "let's throw the dishes in the sink, ma," do it! Well, maybe not exactly heave them but you could give them a push in the right direction... providing you have one of these new rubber sink liners. Always a catch to it isn't there, mom?

Anyhoo, this little sink deal is dish proof, clutter proof, but definitely not water proof. Perforations in the 12 by 14-inch rubber mat, with three-inch protector flaps, will allow water to swim about, then when used and ready to be drained away, will slip through holes with nary a hitch.

You might call this new type gadget a rubber dish pan, ex-on the mat protects and prevents scratching and chipping of china-ware.

Resistant to hot water, grease, soaps and kitchen acids, the mat can be washed and kept as new as the day you purchased it, with the gentle care of soap, water and liquid wax. The price on all this rubber, $2.59.

Another bouncing rubber item is the bottle and jar scraper that sells for 39 pennies. It's a long scraper that gets down to the bottom of those narrow mouthed bottles and jars. The slim rubber blade reaches into hard-to-clean areas in any jar and will whip over flat or round surfaces. By the way, this bit of handiness is 10 1/4 inches long.

What's that you say? You want to know why you should buy a 39 cent scraper to pry 3 pennies worth of mayonnaise out of the bottom of its probably very comfortable niche.

Good enough question. Only answers I can give is that food wasted in these hard to get places mounts to quite a sum at the end of a shopping month... either that, or stop eating mayonnaise!

Rubber being the theme today, thought it a good time to mention the all-rubber dolls from England. The washable darlings, with movable or stationary limbs, can be bought to the tune of $1.69 for the 10-inch size to a 20-inch for $3.59.

Colors in modern fabrics cannot be set by soaking in salt water, alum or other solution. Just wash carefully.

King's Daughters Realize $240 At Annual Bazaar-Tea

Sunshine streaming through the long windows of the large K. of P. Hall, Saturday afternoon, added a gay touch to stalls arranged there for the annual King's Daughters bazaar.

The affair was opened by Mrs. L. H. Hardie, honorary president. She was introduced by president, Mrs. W. Bremner and presented with a bouquet of autumn-toned chrysanthemums. Stalls, in charge of circles of the organization, were well patronized and a sum of more than $240 was realized.

Ready-to-Help Circle convened a miscellaneous stall, with Mesdames W. Russell, A. E. Lister and W. Spry in charge; Fellowship Circle, flowers and plants, convened by Miss Marjorie Webb and Miss Mary Craig, and home cooking, Mesdames D. Jack, A. Gilman, K. Henderson, G. Well-

Outstanding Costumes Win At The Beachcombers' Ball

Pirates, princesses, ghosts, sailors and their girls, and many more fanciful costumes, worn at Royal Victoria Club's Beachcombers' Ball on Saturday evening, made work of judges very difficult.

Rear-Admiral W. C. Creery, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Wallace and Mrs. Donal Shepard made the final choice and their decisions were greeted with prolonged applause.

Prizes were presented by Commodore H. A. Wallace to Mr. Ellbeck Wilson, as most original beachcomber in his blackface characterization. His costume of ragged clothes and hat stuck with assorted cigar and cigarette butts.

Mrs. Sylvia Brown in her potato-sacking tunic, most original beachcomber woman.

Seconds were Mr. Hamish Dunn as caveman in sheepskin with long blond wig, Mr. Gordon Abernethy, an Eskimo, complete with fishing line and dead fish tied to the end of a pole.

Most original costume was worn by Mr. Pat Patterson who came as a lighthouse.

Mrs. A. deM. Mellin as an Indian woman carrying basket of pottery and papoose received the prize for the most original woman's costume.

For Mrs. Leonard Clark

Bronze and yellow chrysanthemums centred the tea table yesterday afternoon at Empress Hotel where the Misses Gwen and Florence Scott were hostesses in honor of Mrs. Leonard Clark, author of the new children's book, "The Golden Pine Cone."

Mrs. Jean Gow and Mrs. John Parnall presided at the silver urns and others present were Mesdames Ellis, Scace, Stubbs, S. Pettit, Hobbs, Clarke, MacMillan, Atkinson, T. W. A. Gray, Misses Marian James, Margaret Hincks, Doris Holmes, Wanda Stachon, Nan Hutton, Noel Smith, Joyce Smith, Margaret Clay, Alison Chow, Frith, Enid McKee, Gladys Ledingham, Elizabeth Forbes and Isabella Pike.

Dr. and Mrs. Denton Holmes, and Miss Nancy Drew, 943 St. Charles, left today for California where they will spend a three to four-month vacation. During their absence their apartment will be occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Ross Hett, formerly of Kamloops.

Mr. and Mrs. John Harvey, 1056 Deal Street, who returned to the city recently from an extended holiday in Great Britain and France have had their daughter, Mrs. Leo S. Gansner, and her two children of Nelson, B.C., visiting them during the past week. They returned to their interior home by air on Saturday.

Mrs. Wallace Opens Bazaar Held By Ex-Service Woman

Promptly at 2 o'clock on Saturday, in a few quiet spoken words that expressed a sincere wish for its success, Mrs. Clarence Wallace opened a bazaar sponsored by Ex-Service Women's Branch, Canadian Legion, B.E.S.L., in Britannia auditorium.

Miss Doris Hooper, branch president, introduced Mrs. Wallace and presented her with a bouquet of pink and white carnations.

A sum of more than $175 was realized.

Mrs. Grace Jennings was general convener, assisted by Mesdames Peggy Newman, Mary Rankin and Isabel Walker, home cooking; Mesdames M. Overton, L. McGill and M. Boyd, fancy work; Miss Phyllis Mylrea, white elephant; Mrs. John Barton and Mrs. W. Walker, novelties; Mrs. Betty Lambert, lucky seven;

Miss Kitty Graham, aprons; Mrs. A. Clough, fortunes; Mrs. M. Lawson, Afghan; Mrs. M. Erickson, lady with a thousand pockets, and Miss J. M. Wilkinson, tea tickets.

Afternoon tea was served at small tables centred with sprigs of evergreens and silvered cones. The head table was centred with a larger spray of cones and evergreens, flanked by tall yellow candles in silver chandelabra.

Mrs. J. M. Akkerman presided at the urns.

Mrs. G. S. Rowe was in charge of tea arrangements, assisted by Mrs. Akkerman, Misses Barbara Atkins, and Daphne Smith. During the afternoon a gift was presented by Miss Hooper to Mrs. Jennings on behalf of members of the branch.

Mrs. J. Shaw played piano numbers and little Laeda Grant sang several songs.

Y.W.C.A. Bazaar And Fashion Show Clears $300 For World 'Y' Fund

A sum of more than $300 was cleared at the Saturday afternoon and evening bazaar and fashion show sponsored by the Y.W.C.A.

All active groups as well as resident girls in the "Y" had a part in the successful affair. Proceeds will be used for the world Y.W.C.A. fund.

Highlight of the event was the fashion show. Mrs. B. E. Foster, president of the "Y" board of directors, acted as commentator, and mannequins were members or children of members of Y.W.C.A. groups.

Styles shown included smart winter and early spring wear for tiny tots, twenties, high and college girls, young business girls and the matron, climaxed with a bridal party and three lovely brides in pink, blue and white, respectively.

Models were Jock Elliott, Marion Hassell, Vonnice Smith, Margaret Tricky, tiny tots; Ann Anderson, Lois Butler, twenties; Evelyn Holland, Gillian Pavier, Diane Sandford, Dorothy Sullivan, Jean Speeding, teen-agers; Marjorie Bath, Donald Clements, Olive Mason, young business, and Eita Anderson, Gisela Bialuski, Betty Brindle, Mae Brown, Peggy Cawsey, Dorothy Dempster, Elizabeth Girvin, Joyce Hassell, Gwen Humerton, Olga Jardine, Yvonne Love, Jocelyn Marshall, Margaret McCurrah, Alma McDonald, Winsome Oliver, Betty Waldron and Mary William, the young married and matron styles.

Stalls arranged in the main lounge included hand-sewing, sponsored by Chatelaine Club and board members, with Mesdames D. DeCosta, E. Holdsworth, M. Wadsworth and D. Davis in charge; accessories, Mrs.

W. H. Hamilton and Mrs. P. Mulcahy; home-cooking, Overseas Wives Club, Mesdames J. Corbett, A. MacKay and W. Elliott. Afternoon tea was served, and in the evening, coffee and cookies, under convensership of Mrs. Mae McClement, assisted by Mrs. F. Hawes and Mrs. H. L. Seats.

Miss Christina Gardiner and Mrs. Peter Lindsay received guests.

Married At Afternoon Ceremony

Mr. and Mrs. William Owen Crow repeated marriage vows in St. Luke's Anglican Church at an evening ceremony recently. The wedding united the former Audrey Eileen (Betty) Townsend, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Townsend, 3307 Kingsley Street, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Crow, 986 Milner Avenue. Autumn Theme Setting For Double Ring Ceremony

Profusions of autumnal bronze and yellow chrysanthemums formed the perfect setting for the double-ring ceremony held in First Baptist Church when Myrna Gwendolyn Davis became the bride of Stanley Wyndham Thompson.

The ceremony, performed by Rev. G. Coster, united the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Davis, 2563 Vancouver Street and the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Thompson, 124 Beechwood Ave.

The bride, entered the church wearing a white tulle gown fashioned with delicate insets of lace in the slim bodice and full skirt. A bustle effect added back interest to the skirt which extended into a slight train. Missing from a pointed beaded crown, was her fingertip veil embroidered with lace. The fair-haired bride carried a bouquet of red roses.

Gowned in rustling taffeta dresses, in shades of rose and turquoise blue, were matron of honor Miss Lilian Henderson and Miss Vivian Bloomquist, bridesmaid. Both attendants carried mixed colonial bouquets.

Alan Thompson brother of the groom was best man and ushers were Gordon Armour, cousin of the groom, and George Thackray. While the couple signed the register Miss Myrna Haggart, accompanied by organist Oliver Stout, sang "Still as the Night." Standing before a fireplace decked with fluffy chrysanthemums at the home of the groom's parents, the newlyweds received guests. Centred on the lace-covered bride's table was a three-tiered cake flanked by tall pink candles. Rev. Coster proposed the toast to the bride.

The going-away ensemble of the bride was a three-piece gabardine suit, featuring deep rose topcoat over her pastel blue suit. Smart navy accessories and a corsage bouquet of gardenias completed the ensemble.

On their return from Seattle, where the honeymoon is being spent, the couple will make their home in this city.

St. Luke's Parish Founded In 1861 Diocesan Board Members Are Told

Canon F. Pike, speaking at the afternoon session of the monthly board meeting of the Anglican Diocesan Women's Auxiliary, last Friday in St. Luke's Parish Hall, gave an interesting review of the history of St. Luke's parish, founded by Bishop Hills in 1860.

He explained that when Bishop Hills came out from England he was given a sum of money as an endowment fund for the diocese and this money was invested in land at Cedar Hill. This land was rented out as 10-acre farms, tithes of the crops being paid to the diocese.

In 1861 seven acres of land was donated to the parish of St. Luke's, one acre as a building site for the church and churchyard and six acres for the parson's glebe land. It is on this glebe land that the 20 cottages for senior citizens have recently been built to house senior citizens, pensioners and others unable to pay high rents.

The speaker described the attractively appointed cottages and said the project had attracted attention all across Canada and in the United States.

Mrs. R. O. Taylor, diocesan president, was in the chair: Mrs. S. S. Marco took Bible reading, Mrs. G. Lifton led opening prayers and Mrs. L. C. Lytton welcomed members. Mrs. R. Willis was appointed first vice-president. A visitor from Montserrat Diocese, Mrs. G. C. Jackson, was welcomed.

Named as Local Council of Women delegates were Mrs. J. O. Clay and Miss E. N. Nicolls. Treasurer, Mrs. S. G. Wilson, reported receipts of $394.09; educational secretary Miss W. E. Seymour said 2,500 calendars had been sold; Mrs. F. Goodwin, girls' secretary said a Bible was being sent to a young couple at Fort George, graduates of the Tudeau School and junior secretary, Mrs. P. G. Raven, reported new branches at Sooke and Qualicum. Diocesan secretary, Mrs. B. P. Harding, appealed for psalters for an up-land choir and social service secretary, Mrs. H. G. Horth, said nine Christmas parcels had been sent to clergy in England.

On display were a number of rugs, dolls and moccasins made of baby seal by Eskimo women of Pangnirtung Women's Auxiliary.

Next board meeting will be held in St. Barnabas Parish Hall on Dec. 8 at 10.30.

Britons Knit Luxury Woolens

LONDON (CP)—Busy fingers knitting scarves and baby clothes are helping to mend Britain's dollar gap.

But the handicraft of the Women's Home Industries hasn't yet found a market in Canada. Instead it's going to the United States where specialty shops are snapping up the hand-knit luxury woolens.

At present some 4,500 housewives spend their spare time knitting for the three-year-old organization. Now another 1,000 expert knitters are being sought.

W.H.I. was formed at a time when British financial history was at its lowest ebb. It grew out of a suggestion that British handicrafts be put to work to earn dollars.

Non-profit making, the organization has accepted work from all persons—tapestries from Queen Mary, quilting from miners' wives. The only requirement is that workmanship must be of the highest standard.

Chairman of W.H.I. is Lady Reading, who during the war mobilized the voluntary services of more than 1,000,000 women to assist with civil defence and with the clothing, feeding and shelter of air-raid victims.

Because they were reputed good for the eyes, the Roman Emperor Nero wore emerald eye-glasses.

Young Women Needed, Mission Posts, At Home And Abroad

TORONTO (CP)—The United Church of Canada is appealing for 125 young women annually to fill mission spots in the dominion and overseas. It was announced by Miss Leslie Bowman, secretary of the personnel committee for women workers.

Miss Bowman said that 450 women now are engaged in full-time church work in United Churches in Canada and overseas. The additional yearly increment is needed for jobs in Christian education, medical and other church work in Canada and Angola, Central India, Japan, Korea, China and Trinidad.

The United Church maintains its own training school in Toronto to train women for the work of the church, other than the ordained ministry. The school operates in co-operation with the Anglican Women's Training College and the Presbyterian Missionary and Deaconess Training School. Principal of the United Church Training School is Mrs. J. D. H. Hutcheson.

At this school the course takes two years except for nurses and other specialists like laboratory technicians and home economists. The present enrolment is 27. In addition to six young women on special scholarships from overseas.

SIX GO TO JAPAN

The admission requirement is a university degree or senior matriculation plus professional training and successful experience in some field such as teaching, nursing or business.

This year the school made six special appointments to Japan, two secretaries for office work and four teachers of English for Japanese high schools, all of whom will serve in Japan for three years.

Miss Bowman said the salaries for women church workers are "adequate," with pension plans and medical and dental benefits. Furloughs are provided every five or six years.

The greatest need she stressed, is for women to serve in the field of Christian education.

At Christmas the girls hold a concert at which the offertory music is blended with pipe and voice. "There is something fitting about their use at a religious service," says Miss Blanchard.

"It was from pipes such as these that there evolved the great church organs we know today."

Schoolgirls Make Music From Bamboo

MONTREAL (CP)—Musical bamboo pipes are giving a group of Montreal's schoolgirls new interests in melody and fun at the same time. Girls attending The Study, a private school for girls from five to 17 years of age are instructed by Miss Ruth Blanchard.

The girls make their own pipes, but first are given special instruction on how to use the tools that are needed. Each girl makes her instrument distinctive, painting it to suit her taste.

At Christmas the girls hold a concert at which the offertory music is blended with pipe and voice. "There is something fit-

I.O.D.E. Chapter Tea Commemorates Founding Of British Columbia

Despite inclement weather, the Sir James and Lady Douglas Chapter, I.O.D.E., tea held in Douglas Room, Hudson's Bay Company store, was well attended.

The tea was held to mark the anniversary of the colony of Vancouver Island and British Columbia becoming the province of British Columbia.

Tea tables centred with deep bronze-toned chrysanthemums made a warm note of color. The guest table was bright with yellow rosebuds.

Adding to the significance of the occasion, Mrs. Bertha Parsons, convener and regent, gave an interesting and educational talk. Her address covered the arrival of Sir James Douglas on the colony island, his life here, and the things he did to build up the colony.

Dancers from the Florence Clough Academy were accompanied by Mrs. W. C. Graves. Mrs. Jack Townsend, accompanied by Mrs. J. W. Buckler, gave vocal selections.

Guests of honor were Mrs. C. L. Bishop, Municipal regent, who was presented with a corsage bouquet of pink carnations; Mrs. Tom Lumsden, Municipal secretary, and Mrs. W. R. Hobbs.

Tea was arranged by Mesdames A. McAllister, R. L. Brain, F. Dodsworth, A. Drysdale and O. P. Farthing. Cash receipts were in charge of Mrs. G. A. Vantreight.

Expansion Of Canadian Business Shown By Bank

Steady growth of Canadian business during the past year is reflected in the general statement published today by the Canadian Bank of Commerce, which contains the bank's balance sheet and profit and loss statement for the fiscal year ending 31st October, 1950. The balance sheet shows total assets and liabilities of $1,755,000,000, up $109,000,000 over the previous year's figure. Net profits for the year were higher by about $400,000 at $4,015,259, after providing $2,014,340 for government of Canada taxes and $1,292,039 for depreciation on bank premises. Dividends to shareholders totaled $3,000,000 and $1,015,249 was carried forward to the profit and loss account, the balance in which stands at $4,720,269.

LOANS INCREASED

Current loans and discounts in Canada increased $48,000,000, from $417,000,000 at the end of October last year to $465,000,000, in the statement issued today.

Public deposits not bearing interest at $606,000,000 were $65,000,000 higher than in 1949.

Savings deposits reached $901,000,000, up $20,000,000 from last year.

Deposits by and balances due to the Government of Canada and provincial governments were $78,000,000 this year, compared with $86,000,000 last year.

At $39,000,000, deposits by and balances due to other banks and correspondents were up $19,000,000 from 1949. Acceptances and letters of credit outstanding were $63,000,000 this year compared with $49,000,000 last year.

Cash, cheques and bank balances were $268,000,000, up $21,000,000 from 1949. Government of Canada and provincial government securities in the bank's portfolio totaled $675,000,000 as against $666,000,000 last year. At $148,000,000, other securities were up $12,000,000 from 1949. Call and short loans were $36,000,000 this year as compared with $28,000,000 last year.

September Gain By Retail Stores

OTTAWA (CP)—Sales in Canadian retail stores showed a gain of 9 per cent in September over the corresponding month of last year, the Bureau of Statistics said Monday. Increases were registered by 18 of the 20 trades reporting and in all provinces except Saskatchewan.

For the first nine months of the year, the over-all advance was 6.2 per cent.

Appliance and radio stores and motor vehicle dealers reported increase of 27 and 25 per cent, respectively.

British Columbia had the largest sales gain with a rise of 12.8 per cent, followed by Ontario with a rise of 12 per cent. Sales in Quebec rose 9.6 per cent; Alberta, 6 per cent; the Maritimes, 5.8 per cent, and Manitoba, 4.8 per cent. In Saskatchewan, sales were down 3.1 per cent.

British Yards Step Up Tempo

LONDON (Reuter)—British shipyard workers, still awaiting the outcome of their demand for wage increases, have stepped up the tempo of production in British yards, busiest in the world. British shipbuilders now are at work on a record £26,500,000 worth of orders, with civilian and naval contracts continuing to roll in.

Both management and workers in main yards say the men are working faster than at any time since the end of the war, and that the stepped-up tempo of production is a factor in keeping the order books filled.

Workers' demands for an increase of £1 weekly from the present average weekly wage of about £16 have gone to arbitration, and a decision is expected shortly. Yard owners say if wages go up Britain may have to price herself out of the shipbuilding business, with contracts going to European yards whose costs are lower.

Store Fire $10,000

GLENDALE, Alta. (CP)—Fire which threatened buildings on the main street of this village, 125 miles northeast of Edmonton, destroyed the Zinewitch general store during the week end. Damage was expected to amount to about $10,000.

U.S. Cuts Aluminum For Civil Consumption

NEW YORK (AP)—The first government order cutting back non-military consumption of a strategic defence metal was handed to industry last week—with notice that others are due shortly.

Civilian consumption of aluminum was ordered trimmed by about 35 per cent effective Jan. 1. And William H. Harrison, chief of the National Production Authority, said similar controls of cobalt, zinc, tungsten, cadmium and manganese may come "rather promptly." The copper and nickel situations are under study.

The aluminum cutback was about in line with trade expectations, and had little effect on the metal markets.

Demand for all the major metals seemed certain to continue running far ahead of supplies for the rest of this year.

Major non-ferrous metals prices:

Copper—24.50 cents a pound, Connecticut Valley. Foreign, 24.50 cents, New York.

Lead—17 cents a pound, New York; 16.80 cents, St. Louis. Foreign, 17.50-18 cents, nominal, Gulf of Mexico ports.

Zinc—17.50 cents a pound, East St. Louis; 18.22 cents, New York. Foreign, 22 cents, nominal, Gulf of Mexico ports.

Aluminum—19 cents a pound, ingots, shipping point. Pigs, 18 cents.

Antimony—35.28 cents a pound, cased (less than carload lots), New York; 32 cents, bulk; Laredo, Texas.

Nickel—48 cents a pound, electrolytic cathodes, Port Colborne, Ont.; 51.22 cents, New York.

Shoemakers' Strike Ends This Week

VANCOUVER (CP)—The strike-bound J. Leckie Shoe Co. will open its doors tomorrow for the first time in nearly three weeks.

Members of the striking International Fur and Leatherworkers' Union decided Saturday to accept the company's latest wage offer and return to work. The strike started Oct. 31 over wage disputes.

A company spokesman said that while actual details of the new wage agreement will not be disclosed, it involves the conciliation board award with an extra allowance for piece workers.

Cobalt Silver Mine Reopens

COBALT, Ont. (CP)—Another chapter in the comeback story of this famous northern Ontario silver town was written Saturday.

For the second time in a year, it witnessed the opening of a silver concentrates mill, the second to be returned to production in this fabulous mining region from which $300,000,000 in silver was produced between 1905 and 1922.

Victoria Daily Times 21

That a new boom may be in the offing for this community—almost a ghost town since the price of silver declined—was indicated in the interest shown in Saturday's ceremonies.

Owned by Cobalt Lode Silver Mines Ltd., the new concentrates plant will have a daily capacity of 100 tons.

Consider B.C. Delegation To Discuss Indian Act

A B.C. delegation may be sent to Ottawa when a proposed new Indian Act comes before Parliament again.

Labor Minister John Cates said today serious consideration is being given to the question by a provincial cabinet committee on Indian affairs and possible personnel of the committee is being discussed.

The cabinet committee has

2 Men Suspected Of Cash Raid At St. James Hotel

Two young men are believed to have pried open the St. James Hotel cash register early Sunday morning and escaped with $87. Police said Roy Larkin, night clerk, was upstairs when this occurred.

A screwdriver near the cash register was used to pry it open. Larkin suspects two men who were in the lobby for a few minutes.

Two men answering the description of the suspects were traced as far as Head Street and Dunsmuir Road, Esquimalt, where they paid off a taxidriver with a $5 bill. Police cars converged there but a search of the area failed to find them.

Lecturer Tells Of Red 'Squeeze' On Salvation Army

The Salvation Army was forced from Russia in 1922, and is now being "squeezed" out of Czechoslovakia, Hungary and Eastern Germany, Commissioner Benjamin Oram, veteran of 50 years in the Salvation Army, said here Saturday night.

He is making an international lecture tour, drawing on his experience in many foreign countries.

"The army" is now accepted as an integral part of religious and community life in many parts of the world, he said.

"We used to get criticism for what we didn't do," he said, "and now we get credit at times for what we don't do."

Officers take a fairly objective view of racial and social problems in the countries in which they work, he said, adding that they must be absolutely international in outlook.

Scottish Crest Placed In Memorial Chapel

CHAPTER 35

"Northcott's a supreme egoist," Gil Summerfield went on seriously. "He's convinced he can put anything across no matter how ticklish it is. He'd set his heart on owning Frey & Company, because he honestly believes in it, and he wasn't going to let anything stop him. He knew that I'd known your family for years and he knew the whole situation about—about your father. It was risky, but he thought he could swing us all into line. He believes implicitly in his power to dominate people. That's probably why he told you he controlled Jeff's shares before he actually did. And I guess he thought he could dominate me, too. He can't, but he certainly put me in a tight spot."

"You mean because of—of Jeff?" Ede asked reluctantly.

Gil looked away. "Yes. Because of Jeff. We had a talk, Ede. I'm pretty dumb about business, but I gathered this was supposed to be a cosy little get-together between the three of us. And I also gathered that you weren't to know anything about it—yet."

"But you saw me that night," Ede said, almost accusingly. "And you didn't say a word."

"ALMOST QUIET"

He spread his hand. "How could I? Listen. When I found out that it was Frey & Company Northcott had in mind, and that Jeff was involved, I was on the point of getting out of the thing altogether. But then I reconsidered. I— he paused, his face darkening. "This isn't too easy, Ede."

"I'll help you," Ede said. "You knew Jeff was having pressure put on him to sell us out. You thought he was pretty sure to do it. And you decided to buy his shares, rather than let someone else get them. Wouldn't that about cover it?" She shook his arm slightly.

Gil said embarrassedly. "All right. Not that I'm any thin red hero, but I did figure it best for me to appear to play ball. But, naturally, I couldn't—couldn't."

"Tell me that same evening that Jeff was a louse?"

He nodded. "I didn't want you to know anything about Jeff's part in it unless you absolutely had to. It might have come out, you see. Jeff couldn't make up his mind. But 'louse' is way too strong. Jeff's easily led and Northcott obviously had him."

"Would Subsidize Milk Industry"

Subsidization of the production and distribution of whole milk was asked today by E. W. Haw, secretary-treasurer of the Victoria Labor Council, in a letter to Mayor Percy George.

The letter asked council to do everything in its power to press the federal government for a subsidy. It asked for serious consideration at earliest convenience.

"We are seriously concerned by the proposed increase in the price of milk and if the increase is granted it will deprive the children of a basic food," Mr. Haw wrote.

under his thumb. So I figured that, if Jeff were really going to sell his shares, I'd better buy them. Rather than let some stranger Northcott might dig up cut himself a piece of cake. Or, rather, a piece of change."

There was a soft warm light in Ede's eyes.

BY AFFIDAVIT

"The lady," she said, "is getting it at last. Naturally, you didn't want me to find out about all this and think—all the things I did think later on. So you went to a notary and made a statement to the effect that if Jeff's shares came to you, you intended transferring them to me. In other words, you were all set to double-cross Northcott, weren't you? As a favor to me? I've been looking for a word to describe you, Gil Summerfield. I can't be sure, but I think it's 'darling'."

Gil pressed the hand she'd given him gratefully.

"And then," he continued, "we all got out on Northcott's boat. You've got to remember, Ede, that I was still affecting to play ball with him. Well, before Northcott talked to you, he came to me. Very late that night. He was quite disturbed. He wanted me to use my influence with you, as an old friend of your family's. And then's when I balked. And I balked especially because he finally came clean and told me exactly what he was going to do with your agency, if he got it."

"I must have handed him a joit when I turned down his offer," said Ede. "He thought I wouldn't be able to refuse. But what was he going to do with the agency?"

NEEDED FRONT

"It's perfectly simple when you stop to think about it," Gil told her. "Northcott controls a lot of different advertising appropriations in that firm he's with. He's a big shot and he can throw that business any-

"We had a fight," Gil said. "I told him that, now I understood how things were, I wanted nothing to do with such a scheme. I said I was through and that he could get someone else to go in with him for this dirty work. It was—Gil laughed shortly—"quite a good fight. And finally Northcott blew up altogether and ordered me off his boat. I was glad to go because . . . He checked himself."

"I guess we'll skip that," Ede said firmly.

"Well," Gil said, "do you remember that Winwood woman on the boat? It seems that once when she was dumpy during the bridge game, she went on deck and . . . oh, it was just that when she came back, she—she said something that made me think you and Reagan were that way about each other."

Mayhew Returning To Meet British Pensions Minister

Fisheries Minister R. W. Mayhew will return to Victoria from Ottawa Dec. 3 to be on hand for the arrival of Dec. 7 of Rt. Hon. H. A. Marquand, British Minister of Pensions.

Mr. Mayhew will take the British minister on a tour of the Veterans' Hospital and will arrange a meeting with a representative group of Imperial pensioners residing on Vancouver Island.

Mr. Mayhew hopes to acquaint Mr. Marquand with the problems of former members of the British forces residing in Canada on pensions—problems resulting from devaluation and double taxation.

Mr. Marquand is arriving in Victoria from Seattle by air on the morning of Dec. 7 and will leave for Vancouver the following morning.

The minister is touring Canada and the United States studying veterans' affairs administration of the two countries.

ST. JOHN'S SCOUTS

A St. John's Boy Scout troop will be formed Friday in the St. John's Auditorium under the leadership of John Frey and his assistant, John Casson. Ten boys will form the nucleus of the new troop.

Burgess Bedtime Story

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Of all who roam this earthy sphere,
None lives who is devoid of fear.

—Old Mother Nature.

Honker the Goose and his

Rock on their way to the sunny south had settled for the night.

They had settled, but they were not yet ready for sleep. They were gabbling in low tones as only geese can gabble. It had been an exciting day and there was much to gabble about. Yes, sir, it had been an exciting day.

Wouldn't you be excited if you had met one of the largest animals ever to live? Had looked into a mouth so big that it seemed as if you could be taken in and swallowed whole? Of course you would.

Well that is just what had happened that day to those geese.

They had been flying far out from shore over the ocean and had stopped on the water to rest.

Without warning, up from the depths had come Balsem the Blue Whale, largest of all living creatures, so big that beside him even an elephant would look very small. Among themselves they called him Big Mouth which, if you ever have seen Balsem, you will agree was a very good name indeed.

60 FEET LONG

They had seen another of the whale cousins, Finback, who was not nearly as big as his cousin but still was almost too big for Belief. He was more than 60 feet long. You wouldn't call that small, would you? They had seen him before they saw

Big Mouth. After the latter disappeared for good they saw

Finback again. In fact he was in their neighborhood for quite a while so that they got quite used to him and the young geese grew less and less afraid of him.

The older ones, who had made his acquaintance long ago, were not afraid at all. They knew he couldn't swallow one of them if he tried, and he wouldn't try.

So there was nothing to fear.

When Finback finally left he did so in such a hurry that it was very much as if he had had a sudden fright.

It was about this that the geese were gabbling when they should have been going to sleep.

"It couldn't be," said one.

"What couldn't be?" another asked.

"It couldn't be that that fellow was scared. No one as big as that would or could be afraid of anything; not of anything at all," replied the other.

"Perhaps Big Mouth, his awful big cousin, was about and we didn't see him. It might be that he was afraid of him because he is so much bigger," said another.

"Don't tell us you think anyone that big could be anywhere

"Finback hasn't any teeth either," spoke up Honker around and we not know it!" exclaimed another.

Thereupon there was much gabbling and all agreed that Big Mouth couldn't possibly have been around at that time. So if Finback was afraid, it couldn't have been of his bigger cousin.

"Anyway Big Mouth hasn't any teeth, so I guess he couldn't hurt anyone if he tried," said one.

"How do you know he hasn't?"

came the prompt demand.

"Because I looked right into

"WEAK" BACK?

Many say they get "cold" in the back-or the kidneys—so easily! That's why thousands keep Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver

Pills always on hand. For this reliable remedy is like two treatments in one—works faster to relieve painful backaches due to faulty kidneys. Dr. Chase—a name you can depend on.

DR. CHASE'S

his mouth when he had it open.

There wasn't a tooth there," retorted the other.

At once there was a lot more gabbling and it was agreed that this was so. All of them had looked into that big mouth, but some had been too frightened to think about teeth. Now they were sure that if there had been any teeth they would have been very big teeth, so big that they would have been noticed at once.

"Finback hasn't any teeth either," spoke up Honker.

This wasn't the first time the wise old leader had seen whales.

You see he had made this long trip so many times that he had seen many whales. He knew that neither Finback nor Balsem, his biggest cousin, has teeth. It seemed queer to think it was so, but he was sure that it was, and he was right. Neither of these great whales has teeth.

Even so could it be that Finback's sudden leaving in the way he had that day meant that he was afraid, was scared? The geese gabbled about it until long after they should have been asleep.

British Doctors To Fight State-Run Medical Service

LONDON (Reuter)—A group of influential doctors, headed by

cian, has pledged full support to thousands of general practitioners in a plan to boycott the state-run medical service.

Threats of a general withdrawal from the health service have come from the British

Medical Guild, which is polling all general practitioners asking them to quit if they do not get a pay rise by next March.

Doctors in three big cities have already approved the medical guild's plans.

Allies 2 Miles From Manchuria

U.S. Units Meet Slight Resistance

WITH U.S. 10TH CORPS, NORTH KOREA (AP)—A corps spokesman said elements of the U.S. 7th Division today stabbed within two miles of the Manchurian border.

A corps briefing officer said the advance units met only sporadic-to-light resistance, which dwindled to "practically none."

Advances also were reported in three other sectors: U.S. marines moved two miles up the east shore of the great Changjin reservoir of central Korea. South Koreans fought up the northeast coast under cover of American naval guns. And the South Koreans 2nd Corps advanced up to three miles unopposed on the right flank of the northwest front, where the Communists had fought stubbornly until Sunday.

The rapid sweep toward the border carried the 7th Division's 17th regimental combat team through a winter wonderland. Tanks clanked between hills covered with snow. Fluffy white clouds sailed overhead.

The expected battle of Kapsan turned into a rout of the Reds Sunday morning. A sharp fight on the hills outside the walled city left scores of North Korean dead. Many were crushed by the treads of tanks on the hillside where they had planned to ambush the American column.

Wismer 'Amazed' At Alta.

British Columbia Attorney-General Gordon Wismer today expressed surprise at the Alberta government's move to control professional services.

Mr. Wismer said that although there doesn't appear to be a constitutional question, he was "amazed at the step."

He said he "personally wouldn't favor the move," and added that it didn't appear natural for a government to take such a step in the democratic days.

"We certainly have never considered any such move in British Columbia. I would consider it a backward step—that is why I am amazed," the Attorney-General added.

He wondered what would happen to the "esprit de corps" in professional groups if government body took over licensing. Mr. Wismer said also he thought standards set by the professions were high, and were looked after quite well by the groups concerned.

Heads of medical, dental and accountants associations in the city did not care to comment on the Alberta proposal. They said they had not heard enough about it at this time to make a statement.

Meanwhile, according to British United Press, the Alberta College of Physicians and Surgeons protested directly today against the provincial government's plan to take over licensing of professional people in the province.

The college asked that it be allowed to continue the present administrative system under which it grants the licenses. (See Earlier Story Page 6)

Skiers Face Stern Tests

VANCOUVER (CP)—Canadian skiers face a stern series of tests this season which will largely decide their chances of making the 1952 Olympics at Oslo, Norway.

Candidates for team berths will have to compete in four of North America's top races in order to receive consideration for the trials selection committee.

The western Olympic trials, cross-country and jumping events will be held at Princeton, Feb. 17-18, and the downhill and slalom at Banff, March 1-15.

U.S. Marines Stand At Red Reservoir

Led by Col. Homer L. Litzberg Jr. of Philadelphia, commander of the 7th Marine Regiment, a Marine patrol reaches the south end of the vital Chosin Reservoir. Shortly later, they met the first sizeable enemy force in several days. Today the same elements were within a few miles of the Manchurian border.—(NEA)

TWO DIE IN RAGING CALIFORNIA FLOOD

Damage In Millions, Thousands Flee As Record Rains Hit Valley Areas

FRESNO (UP)—California's worst flood sent torrents of water pouring through the state's rich Central Valley today. Two deaths were reported. Damage stood at $10,000,000. Some 8,500 persons fled their homes.

The weather bureau forecast more rain today. A week-end deluge of rain and muggy weather melted the Sierra Nevada snowpack and sent streams and rivers overflowing in the Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys which comprise the Central Valley region.

Authorities believed the worst of the danger was over early today as the waters began receding in many places. Many evacuees began returning to their silt-filled homes.

But authorities kept close watch lest the rivers begin rising again. These rivers included Kings, Kaweah, the Tule, Kern, Saint John's, Tulare, Chowchilla, Merced and Stanislaus, all in the San Joaquin Valley, and the American River in the Sacramento Valley.

Sacramento County authorities reported they received seven complaints of looting of evacuated homes.

Some communities and residential areas along the San Francisco Bay shore were under water in a combination of high tides and rain. One community, Alvarado, Southern Alameda County, was isolated for a time Sunday and 100 persons were evacuated.

One small town, Piedra, on the Kings River, was virtually wiped out. Chowchilla and Kingsburg were under several feet of water last night.

State Agricultural Commissioner John Dixon, who has had years of experience with floods in the area, made an educated guess that crop damage would exceed $10,000,000. However, cotton farmers were thankful that 60 per cent of the cotton crop was in.

$500 Damage In Esquimalt Crash

About $500 damage was reported today in a collision between cars driven by Hardy C. Lane, 332 1/2 Douglas Street, and James Fairall, 1170 Rhoda Lane, on Craigflower Road. No one was injured, Esquimalt police said.

Victim's Wife Is Jailed

OTTAWA (UP)—Ontario Attorney-General Dana Porter late today ordered two of his senior lieutenants to find out why Ottawa police were not notified of the slaying of 52-year-old Francis Sullivan for some nine hours.

Porter pointed out the slaying took place early Saturday morning but Ottawa police did not get a call on it until shortly after noon that day.

OTTAWA (CP)—Marion Sullivan, 50, her face pale and drawn, today made a brief silent appearance in city court, charged with the murder of her husband, grey-haired, 52-year-old Francis J. Sullivan, prominent Toronto lawyer.

The chief solicitor for the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests was found bludgeoned to death early Saturday in a swank tower suite of the downtown Chateau Laurier Hotel, home of cabinet ministers and members of Parliament.

The socially well-known Mrs. Sullivan, holding a blue coat over her arm, finally stood before the court filled with spectators to hear the charge of murder read out by the court clerk.

She was taken quickly out of the room after Crown attorney Raoul Mercier sought and obtained a week's remand of the hearing, on the understanding that still another week's remand would be sought when the former Marlon Gough made her second appearance in court.

Main reason for the Crown's call for remand, police disclosed, was the need to clear up "an avalanche of detail" in the first case in Ottawa's history of a woman charged with murder.

They called attention to an nine-hour delay between the time the coroner, Dr. Harry Dover, viewed the body on the first residential floor of the chateau and the time he called police into the case.

Dr. Dover told the Canadian Press that he delayed calling police because he was not certain that foul play was involved.

Dr. Dover quoted Mrs. Sullivan as saying that her husband had fallen to the floor in the bedroom of their suite and apparently injured himself.

Following normal routine, Dr. Dover said, he had the body transferred to Civic Hospital for an autopsy. There had been delay at the hospital.

Mineral Search

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask. (CP)—Resources Minister J. H. Brockelbank said today that expenditure this year on mineral development in northern Saskatchewan's pre-Cambrian area will total $2,000,000.

NANCY HODGES WRITES 2,000

Nancy Hodges writes about Sherlock Holmes and "The Baker St. Irregulars" on page 2 today. By dint of a little private sleuthing, The Times turned up an interesting statistic on "One Woman's Day" for today. It is an anniversary—the 200th column written under that heading by Madame Speaker.

Capt. Brock To Lead U.N. Fleet

A U.N. NAVAL BASE IN SOUTH JAPAN (CP)—Capt. Jeffrey Brock of Victoria, commander of the Canadian three destroyer flotilla which is here today from Hongkong, will command the entire United Nations fleet on the west coast of Korea during the next patrol.

Besides the Canadian destroyers, Dutch, French and British units will take part in the patrol, for which preparations now are being made.

'KING AROO' MAKES DEBUT

A brand new comic strip, "King Aroo," starts in The Times today. It's pure fantasy and whimsy. It's a story about a non-existent king in a never-never kingdom, and his vicer, cook and handyman, the incredible Yupyop.

We think you'll find "King Aroo" one of the brightest newcomers in years. Start following him today, on page 19.

Hamery Resigns Bucs' Post

NEW YORK (UP)—The general manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates for the last four seasons—H. Roy Hamery—today resigned. He said he will join the New York Yankees as assistant to general manager George Weiss.
